NOT A CANDIDATE

Hon. George W. Fifield Writes Chairman Hogan

STATING WHY HE CANNOT ACCEPT A NOMINATION

For Congress in this District at Present.

The following letter of declination to be a candidate for congress, has been mailed by Hon. George W. Fifield, and puts an end to the speculation as to whether he would accept the nomination:

John J. Hogan, Esq.,
Chairman 5th Congressional District Committee.

Dear Sir,—Through you I wish to say to the democrats of this 5th congressional district that it will be impossible for me to become the party's candidate at the coming election, as I do not approve of the financial plank in the Chicago platform. Besides, my private and other interests demand my whole time.

It having been the custom to extend to a candidate the courtesy of a second nomination, I take this early opportunity to communicate this decision to you, that there may be ample time to consider candidates before the convention, and that you may be able to shape your affairs and select your candidate.

The candidate from this district, if elected would be expected to support the national administration and platform. I could not and would not, as I consider the financial doctrine laid down in the Chicago platform to be unwise and mischievous.

W. J. Bryan, the democratic nominee is honest, able and frank; I protest only against his financial policy and that of the platform. My objections are so strong on this question, that I should turn to McKinley, the republican nominee, but find him equally objectionable. He is neither honest, able nor frank on this or any other issue; his every utterance and act throughout his public career confirms this. He was regarded by all the silver delegates from the radical states and territories at the St. Louis convention as one of their kind; they were instructed for him, and regarded him as a man after their own hearts, and all who remained in the convention voted for him, and those who went out would have done so had they not bolted on account of the gold plank forced into the platform against the wishes of his manager and mortgagee. But we are told that although McKinley is wrong financially and fundamentally, he stands on a gold platform. So he does, but unfortunately the candidate is elected, and not the platform. If the St. Louis convention wanted or intended to nominate a sound money candidate for the presidency, a man of honesty, ability, frankness, courage, and sound financially, was presented to that convention in Thomas B. Reed. But he was rejected for one who is lacking in all these qualities. We find in the Chicago platform a financial plank, which I believe to be unsound and undemocratic. We find in the St. Louis platform a sound financial plank and a candidate nominated upon it who is unsound financially and adds to it "McKinleyism," which is a stench in the nostrils of all self-respecting men, a candidate who is owned, controlled, managed and mortgaged to one Hanna and a few of his kind politically, socially, financially and disgustingly. Between the two evils I consider W. J. Bryan to be the least.

I take this opportunity to express to you my high appreciation of the honor conferred on me by your nomination in 1894, and hope to again be in full sympathy with you when the storm of the silver heresy has passed.

GEORGE W. FIFIELD.

FISHER H. PEARSON RESIGNS

FROM THE YOUNG MEN'S DEMOCRATIC CLUB.

He Wants Nothing to Do With a Club That Repudiates the Democratic Platform.

Hon. Fisher H. Pearson has sent the following letter to the Young Men's Democratic club. It is self explanatory:

Lowell, Mass., Aug. 4, 1896.

Robert J. Paine, Jr., Sec.

Dear Sir:—The Young Men's Democratic club of Massachusetts having seen fit, through its executive committee, to belie its name, by repudiating the regularly adopted platform of the democratic party, and by rejecting the regularly nominated candidates of the party; I feel that there is no place in its membership, for one who believes in the principles of that party, in its candidates, and in the duty which every loyal democrat owes, to abide by the will of the majority, when honestly exercised.

The Mail vote recently taken convinces me, that the club proposes to bolt the democratic ticket, and to unite with the republican party, in binding more tightly, the fetters of industrial and financial slavery upon the masses; and I refuse to be in any way, a party to such action.

I therefore tender my resignation as a member of the Young Men's Democratic club.

Very respectfully yours,
FISHER H. PEARSON.

CAMPAIGN NOTES.

The silver cause is still progressing in this state and elsewhere.

The overwhelming majority for the democratic candidate in Alabama surprised the representatives of all three parties in that state, and induced the belief—expressed publicly and exultantly at democratic headquarters, and privately and sorrowfully at the headquarters of the republicans and the populists—that like results would occur in North Carolina and all other southern states where it has been hoped by the republicans and populists that they might win by combination, at least in state elections.

Now the forces that gave Johnston 42,000 majority will work hard for the choice of a silver senator from that state.

The democrats of Maine have declared for the silver standard, and as many republicans are indignant because McKinley defeated Reed; they may be won over to the democratic cause.

Bryan will cause a great commotion in that benighted state. The only trouble is that there is scarcely a silver organ in the state.

Hon. George Fred Williams addressed a big rally at Woburn last night.

THE GREAT L. I. B. PICNIC

A GREAT TURNOUT FOR LYNN TODAY.

Thousands Went by Special Trains and Electric Cars.

At early morning in many Lowell households today, were scenes of great activity and preparation for what is looked forward to with pleasant anticipation as one of the big picnic events of the season, the annual excursion of the Lowell Irish Benevolent society to Lynn.

The excursion of today was the twenty-fifth annual picnic of the Benevolents to the still popular beach at the "City of Shoes." The first picnic was held under the general management of the late John Donnelly, then president of the organization.

The first picnic was held 44 years ago at Old Excelsior grove on the Stonybrook road, then one of the leading pleasure resorts in New England. At that time the late John Quinn, who was the president of the society, was general manager and the assistant was the vice president, who holds the same position today, Morgan Riley.

The steam cars have always been utilized by the organization and today was no exception, but the electric cars attracted a vast crowd that would have gone the usual way. At an early hour St. Patrick's Cadet band paraded the principal streets under the guidance of General Manager Driscoll and people flocked both to the Northern depot and Merrimack square. The electrics were the first to start for Lynn and from 6.25 o'clock every half hour the jumbo cars, each with a seating capacity of 65 persons, went out from Lowell packed. The first special train to leave Lowell was one of twelve cars.

Every seat was occupied, and over 700 persons must have gone in that train.

The next train followed five minutes afterwards, and carried about 150 persons, a great falling off from previous years.

Another special went at 11 o'clock, and brought but a small load, including ticket sellers and members of the committee, who remained over.

A great many Lowellians, probably 200 persons, went on the early train to Boston and thence on the electric cars to Lynn.

The Benevolents carry with them the American flag and the large green flag presented to them by the citizens of Lynn. A member of the picnic committee informed the Sun reporter that the people who went by the electrics would have to pay for dancing and other privileges at the beach. Besides, all outsiders who will undertake to come back on the regular picnic train will have to pay full fare to Lowell just as though they went and came on a regular train. The Star orchestra and St. Patrick's band are furnishing music at the beach, and the Lowell police officers doing duty are "Con" Howard, Hugh Maguire, J. J. Crowley and Curran. The committeemen in charge of the picnic are: General manager, J. J. Driscoll; floor director, Timothy Brennan; secretary and treasurer, Hugh C. McOsker; aids, Morgan Riley, John Whitty, D. J. Regan; James Howard, John Donohoe, James Hylan, Frank McNabb, John J. Brady, J. D. Finnegan, Anthony McCarron, Hugh Golden and Peter Sheehan.

THE BILLERICA DEMOCRATS

LOCKED OUT OF THE TOWN HALL LAST NIGHT.

A Cowardly Way of Opposing the Cause of Silver—The Speakers Were on Hand But Had to Go to an Engine House.

The democrats of North Billerica organized last evening and formed a town committee, the organizers and speakers being Philip J. Farley, Thomas M. Harrigan, Edward McMahon and Frank J. Simonds.

Some one, either the school committee or the selectman went back on their promise to open the town hall, it is said, and as a result it was necessary to call the meeting on the common. Later the unterrified democrats were tendered the use of the engine house and the meeting concluded very successfully.

Mr. Harrigan was chosen chairman and Thomas Mullen, secretary. The town committee was chosen as follows: Thomas Harrigan, Patrick Connolly, Michael Coughlin, Michael McElligot, Wm. Chambers, Joseph Holt and John Harrington. Mr. Harrigan, the Billerica organizer, was much disappointed at the hall being closed, because he had gone before the selectmen and got the promise of it.

The matter will now be settled finally. The democrats must have the hall despite all opposition.

Marriage Intention.

The following intentions were recorded at the city clerk's office today:

Joseph Sarrasin, 23, and Rosanna Tellier, 23.
Robert Ganley, 21, and Katherine McDonough, 19.
James Blakeley, 23, and Martha Stewart, 24.

COMMITTEE ON ACCOUNTS

IS VERY WARY IN CONSIDERING SEVERAL BILLS.

The Recent Indictments Will Cause Officials to be More Cautious in Regard to Expending the City's Money.

The city council is decidedly shy since the grand jury mixed itself in local affairs. and the committee on accounts at its meeting yesterday afternoon gave unmistakable evidence of the effect of a "horrible example" by declining to approve two bills.

S. H. Jones of the water board presented six bills for piping and the both aggregate $1000. After some discussion the committee refused to approve the bill. Of course Mr. Jones will get his money some time.

Then a bill of $30 owed the firm of A. G. Stiles & Co. was refused as Councilman Hallett was a member of the firm.

It was voted that Auditor Chase be given power to approve bills from the reserved fund for the new shooting range and for the grand stand erected in front of city hall for the Fourth of July. This was done on the condition that the Mayor first approve the bills.

A bill from a coal merchant was examined and when it was learned that the coal had been weighed on the merchant's scales, rather than on the city scales, a discussion was held, though the bill went through.

There was more talk over a little bill presented by Charles Clapp for interest which he claims is owed on the money he failed to get through the horse deal.

The bill has been tabled a number of times and each time it was presented it has been for a larger amount. The bill was laid on the table. Councilman Wilson said: "We can't approve that document until a settlement has been reached in the case.

FURTHER GAINS

In the Great Alabama Democratic Majority.

DEMOCRATS WANT ELECTORS OGLY—GOLD MEN BOUNCED.

Maine Democrats Strongly For Bryan.

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 5.—Late returns from Monday's election in this state confirm the report of a complete Democratic victory, with surprisingly large gains. The count in the big counties has been slow, especially in the cities, but official and estimated returns, the latter based on reports received from a majority of the boxes in the counties reporting show that Johnston and the Democrats have certainly carried 45 out of 66 counties, Goodwyn (Pop.) has 15 counties. Six have not been heard from, or are too close to be figured upon. Of the last named, Johnston probably has four and Goodwyn two. It is believed that the complete returns will show a majority of not less than 45,000 for Johnston, and possibly 50,000. As compared to the election of 1894, the Democrats have carried certainly 15 counties that gave a Populist majority two years ago. As to the legislature, the Democrats have gained, it is figured, 14 members of the house, giving them 78 out of 100. They have elected 11 out of 17 senators, which, with 13 hold-over members, gives them 24 out of 33 members of that body. The sentiment of the legislature is silver, which probably means Pugh's re-election to the United States senate.

Democrats Want Electors Only.

Hutchinson, Kan., Aug. 5. — At the state Democratic convention yesterday, the committee on platform and order of business reported without delay. The platform reported unequivocally endorses the Chicago platform, reasserts the demand of the Kansas Democracy for the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1; lauds Bryan and Sewall as the true champions of the people's interests, and in conclusion demands a resubmission of the prohibition question to the people of the state.

But it was in the report of the committee on rules and order of business that all interest centered. To this committee had been delegated, by common consent, the work of planning a means of effecting a fusion with the Populists. This committee reported that the convention should select its presidential electors, though not formally nominating them, and that a special committee of five should be named to wait on the Populists at Abilene and effect a fusion of the two parties in Kansas. In a word the report recommended that the Democrats agree to surrender everything but the electors to the Populists, and to endorse unequivocally the state ticket nominated by the Populists, including a congressman-at-large, in return for an endorsement by the Populists of the Bryan and Sewall electors.

The convention practically adopted the plan by acclamation. There was a few delegates who wanted a Democrat representation on the state ticket, but these were lost sight of, being a very small minority.

Judge Johnson, Democratic national committeeman for Kansas, was selected to head the delegation of ambassadors to the Populists at Abilene.

Immediately after this committee had been named, the convention adjourned until 4 o'clock this afternoon, to await their report. The committee left last night for Abilene. In an interview, Chairman Johnson stated that he had no doubt but a satisfactory arrangement for fusion could be arrived at.

Gold Men Bounced.

Minneapolis, Aug. 5.—The state Democratic convention was held here yesterday. The 600 delegates present were harmonious, so far as the fusion plan with the Populists was concerned, but in the deliverance of their charge things ran less smoothly. This was when the report of the committee on credentials was presented for adoption. It was understood that there were no contests, but a supplementary report was presented, challenging the right of three distinguished members of the Ramsey county delegation to occupy seats on the floor. These were Daniel W. Lawler, national committeeman for Minnesota; Judge McCafferty and Frank W. M. Cutcheon of St. Paul. All are pronounced gold men, who have repudiated the Chicago platform. The silver men were determined to oust them, and they did. A scene of wild disorder ensued, and a small sized riot waged for an hour. Mr. Cutcheon had been invited to express his views, but when he began to speak the crowd would not listen to him. All attempts to preserve order proved futile, and Cutcheon left the platform with the remark: "All right, gentlemen, we will meet you at Philippi."

The three men filed out of the hall, amid the derisive shouts of hundreds of angry men. The fusion plan was adopted.

The Democrats named John Lind for governor, Julius J. Heinrichs for secretary of state, and Alexander McKennon for state treasurer, leaving the lieutenant governorship and the attorney general to be filled in by the Populists. They also named four presidential electors. The Populists will name the remaining electors.

A feature of the convention was a speech by Ignatius Donnelly, pledging harmony and a magnificant victory for all silverites in November.

Maine Men For Bryan.

Alfred, Me., Aug. 5.—The Democratic district convention was held here yesterday. Joseph A. McGowan presided. Chairman McGowan made a stirring speech, in which he denounced the bolters. M. P. Frank of Portland, the free silver advocate, who is to be a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination at Waterville, was made chairman of the committee on resolutions. The committee was evenly divided, 3 to 3, on the question of currency, and offered two platforms, one pledging support to Bryan and Sewall and the other making no reference to the national ticket or platform.

Just before the committee on resolutions reported, Tristram Goldthwaite of Biddeford, in a brief speech, nominated ex-Mayor Edward W. Staples of Biddeford as a candidate for representative to congress. He declared that Mr. Staples was never beaten in a political contest, and predicted victory for him in the September election. The nomination was seconded by William H. Clifford of Portland. Mr. Staples became the nominee of the convention without a dissenting voice.

Up to this time there has not been so much as a breeze of excitement, but when M. P. Frank of Portland addressed the assemblage, a storm set in which shortly afterward took on the velocity of a cyclone. Mr. Frank proceeded to read this resolution, which, he explained, was reported by three members of the committee on resolutions:

"Resolved, That the Democratic delegates of the First district, in convention assembled, reaffirm their adherence to the time-honored principles of the Democratic party, as enunciated by its great founder, Thomas Jefferson, and maintained by the firmness of Jackson, and especially that cardinal principle of Democracy, absolute acquiescence to the will of the majority, and they pledge their loyal support to the candidates nominated at the national convention at Chicago, and will use every honest effort to secure their election, as well as the election of the nominee of this convention."

Mr. Frank was immediately followed by Lumont A. Stevens of Wells, who offered a substitute resolution, which also bore the signatures of three members of the committee.

His resolution was, in effect, simply an endorsement of the gold platform adopted at the state convention, June 17.

Several valiant warriors were suddenly upon their feet. A long oratorical battle followed, and finally loud calls for the "question" brought the matter to a vote.

The original resolution, offered by Mr. Frank, pledging loyal support to the nominees of the Chicago convention, was adopted by a vote of 65 to 25, and a deafening shout went up from the free silver element.

At the mass meeting in the courthouse yard late in the afternoon, free silver speeches were made by E. C. Plummer and John Scott of Bath.

Discussing a Plan of Campaign.

Montpelier, Vt., Aug. 5.—Nine gold Democrats from different sections of the state met at the Pavilion yesterday to discuss the situation and lay out a plan of campaign. The meeting organized with P. M. Meldon chairman, and W. H. Creamer secretary. After a discussion of the position of J. H. Jackson of Barre, nominee for governor, it was decided to wait on him and ascertain his position. Dr. Jackson declared he stood on the platform of the state convention, and that while not entirely agreeing with the Chicago platform, he was not a bolter. It was decided to support Dr. Jackson's candidacy. It was decided to send a representative to the sound money national convention, to be held at Indianapolis, and W. H. Creamer was chosen. A sound money state committee was appointed to receive the report of the delegate to the Indianapolis convention and call a state convention if that conference so advises.

New Silver League.

Boston, Aug. 5.—A Massachusetts non-partisan Silver league was formed here last night, with Norman Cameron as president, John Vaugher, vice president; L. M. Barralle, secretary, and A. Barralle, treasurer. All the officers live in Boston. Letters were received from the American Silver league in Washington, tendering support and offering literature, and from Senator Teller of Colorado. Communications were also received from branch organizations, which have been formed in other parts of the state. It was voted to admit women to all the privileges of the league, except in the matter of voting. The league's support was pledged to Bryan, but the members when interviewed were non-committal on the question of candidate for the vice presidency.

Eminent Educator Gone.

Sharon, Mass., Aug. 5.—Professor Daniel B. Hagar, A. M., Ph D., one of the best known educators in the state, died of heart failure at Massapoag Lake hotel yesterday afternoon. For 31 years he had been the head of the Salem normal school. He had been an educator since 1843. He was born at Newton Lower Falls in 1820. He was the author of many mathematical text books. He was married in Schenectady, N. Y., and had seven children, of whom five survive him.

Sympathetic Strike Unlikely.

Cleveland, Aug. 5.—It is not likely that a sympathetic strike will be ordered here. Eight of the leaders of the Central Labor union, all representing different trades, were interviewed yesterday, and all but two of them expressed themselves as opposed to such a strike, declaring that it would be unwise, and could not benefit the Brown strikers. The question will probably be decided at the meeting of the Central Labor union tonight.

Fire Laddies Meet.

Willimantic, Conn., Aug. 5.—The State Firemen's association opened its 13th annual convention here yesterday. Upwards of 200 visiting firemen are in attendance, including representatives of nearly every steamer, hose and hook and ladder company in the state. Main street business blocks are gay with bunting, and the various engine houses are lavishly trimmed.

Crops and Glass Suffered.

Bradford, Vt., Aug. 5.—A severe hail and wind storm passed over this village yesterday afternoon. The ground in the path of the storm was whitened by hailstones, which broke window glass and beat down smaller crops. The storm was 1½ miles in width, and was accompanied by a strong wind, which stripped fruit and shade trees of limbs and foliage.

Rebels Weakening.

London, Aug. 5. —A Buluwayo dispatch to The Chronicle, touching upon several recent skirmishes with the Matabeles, with only trifling losses to the English side, says: Our recent blows on the rebels are evidently telling.

Evidence of Double Crime.

La Plata, Md., Aug. 5.—George Mathews, an oyster man, is held here charged with the murder of James J. Irwin. Evidence shows that Matthews has been on intimate terms with Mrs Irwin, and that the murdered man was cognizant of the fact. Matthews denies all knowledge of the crime.

A GREAT DISCOVERY.

Scientist Thinks He Can Transmit Images by Wire.

Has the problem of "seeing through a wire"—that is to say, of transmitting visible images electrically, just as we now do speech—at last been solved?

That is the question which just now more or less interests the scientific world. For a long time eminent men of science—men like Professor Graham Bell, E. J. Houston and others—have been predicting that one of these days we should be able to transmit pictures through a wire just as we now talk through a telephone. It is one of the things that have been on the edge of the future.

Simultaneously from Sweden and California come announcements of the solution of the puzzle. Just what the Swedish inventor, who is described as a prominent physicist in his own country, has been able to do is not disclosed—there is a mere announcement of his success.

Dr. Frank M. Close of Oakland, Cal., is willing to tell just enough about his invention to whet the public appetite, and no more. He calls his apparatus a "telectroscope"—that is to say, a device for seeing a long way by means of electricity.—New York Herald.

THE DESERT WILL BLOOM.

Large Amount of Capital Behind an Iowan's Invention.

Arrangements were recently closed at Sioux City, Ia., for the organization of a company of enormous capital which expects, within the next few months, to secure options on all arid lands in Kansas, Colorado, Nebraska and the Dakotas. A system of soil culture invented by H. W. Campbell of that place will be used in cultivating them, and the land will be retailed to farmers.

By using his system Mr. Campbell says the rainfall will be sufficient to raise enormous crops in the driest districts. Experimental stations have been established, at which good results have been accomplished. Among the stockholders in the company will be included, it is said, the Sault Ste. Marie, Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, Burlington and Missouri River, Fremont, Elkhorn and Missouri Valley and Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe roads. Several land and loan companies and many capitalists are also interested in the enterprise.—Chicago Times-Herald.

FOR PRESIDENT,

WILLIAM J. BRYAN of Nebraska

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT,

ARTHUR SEWALL of Maine

Haverhill has had boodle aldermen, and Lowell bids fair to have boodle councilmen. There is scarcely anything in which either Lawrence or Haverhill can outrival Lowell.

The Mail is talking about beating its neighbors, but it had a real scoop on Monday. It got out the issue for Saturday, August 1, on Monday, August 3. This beats the town as usual.

The question now current about the city is, "will the indicted city officials be found guilty?" Upon this point there are various opinions, some favoring the officials, some the reverse. One thing certain is, that the public believes the horse deal was a crooked transaction, and that the councilmen, whether guilty or not, left themselves extremely open to suspicion, whether well founded or otherwise.

The Sunday Register, which has fought such a hard battle against the A. P. A. is now for sale, as Mrs. O'Mahoney's health will not permit her to run the paper any longer. The Register is a good, live weekly paper, and will undoubtedly find many enterprising newspaper men ready to purchase it.

Bryan's eastern trip will be the grand march, as it were, before the opening of the campaign. He will leave Nebraska next Friday and will deliver rear end speeches at a score of towns. Richard P. Bland will accompany Mr. Bryan on his trip as a special correspondent to the press, so that Mr. Bryan may not be misrepresented by the gold bug subsidized press. Mr. Bryan will make his opening speech of the campaign in New York on Aug. 12, when he will be notified of his nomination at Madison Square Garden.

The labor men of Lowell have been seen by a Sun representative, and have expressed themselves very strongly in favor of silver. President Buckley of the Central Labor union, President Duggan of the Cotton Spinners' International union, L. W. Weeks of the Cigar Makers' union, and President Delehanty of the Cotton Spinners, are all enthusiastic silver men. They understand the question, and they believe that the vast majority of labor men in this city will vote solidly for Bryan and Sewall and for free silver.

Mr. Watson, the populist nominee for vice president, talks unceasingly through his newspaper. Chairman Jones of the democratic national committee seems to have made an egregious blunder at the very threshold of the campaign by reflecting upon the southern populists who cast a million votes. The consequence is, that there is a demand for Senator Gorman to take Jones' place in directing the campaign. Such a blunder might easily result as fatally as that of Buchard in his fulsome praise of Blaine.

Here are words of truth from a high authority:

"Alfred Henry Lewis in the New York Journal: McKinley is of no present or future consequence. Hanna is casting the shadow in this campaign. The candidate is swallowed by the manager. The Canton mute is merely a syndicate's entry for the white house stakes. McKinley may be successful, but he cannot win. The syndicate wins. Hanna wins. McKinley may finish first in the race. But the syndicate which groomed him, which drove him, which put up entrance money and paid stable charges, will pocket the prize. Make the voiceless man of Canton president and he will occupy the white house only as the steward of a ring. He will hold his office as the trustee of a coterie: He will dispense its patronage and perform its functions at the will and word of Hanna and to the sole end that the members of that syndicate which invested its millions in the capture of the place may in honors and money profits gain those rewards for which the whole piracy was planned."

THE POLITICAL CAMPAIGN

NERNUSCHI ON FREE COINAGE

What the Eminent Economist Says About the United States Acting Alone.

Henri Cernuschi was the famous French writer who won fame as a champion of international bimetallism and an opponent of independent bimetallism by any single nation. He has been frequently quoted by advocates of the gold standard in this country in their endeavor to combat the arguments of the advocates of "16 to 1." Therefore the following, which comprises the closing paragraphs of an article written for the Paris Economiste, is of interest:

The present monetary policy of the United States is consequently very advantageous to the interests of England, a gold monometallic country, but it is utterly ruinous as regards the foreign financial relations of the United States, and especially for its native producers.

This is why, inasmuch as England's attitude prevents the realization of international bimetallism and condemns one half of the world to gold monometallism and the other half to silver monometallism, I would not hesitate, were I a citizen of the United States, to become—I, Cernuschi, the father of international bimetallism, as I am everywhere called—a silver monometallist.

From a theoretical point of view, the free coinage of silver at 16 to 1, re-established by the United States without the concurrence of Europe, would be a vicious solution, but it would nevertheless be a step in the direction of international bimetallism; for, under the regime of the new standard, the productive power of the United States would receive so enormous an impulse, and this development would have such a disastrous effect upon the economic and financial interests of England and the other European nations now governed by the gold standard, that it may be confidently predicted in advance that the course of events would force the adoption of international bimetallism as the only true solution even upon those who today deny the possibility and efficacy of it.

"Call James A. Garfield."

James A. Garfield said, when in the house:

"Every man who is opposed to the use of silver coin as a part of the legal currency of the country I disagree with. Every man who is opposed to the actual legal use of both metals I disagree with. I would endow the two dollars with equality and make the coinage free."

That was the position of Abraham Lincoln and General Grant. That was the position of the Republican party from its first formation down until the St. Louis convention.

GIST OF THE QUESTION.

"Coin" Makes Some Clear Statements on the Leading Topic of the Day.

It is a common statement that free coinage of silver will run gold out of circulation. Bimetallism contemplates that from time to time one or the other of the metals will be hard to get and will go out of circulation. It is the right to use either metal and the fact that the other metal is accessible and may be used that constitute the principal merit of bimetallism. There is a calamity when one metal goes out of circulation if it is the only metal the law has provided for use as primary money. But there is no calamity on one of the metals going out of circulation if the other metal is accessible, the mints open to its free coinage and the people have the option to use it. Gold is now out of circulation. There is no gold among the people. It is cornered in the bank vaults. It is leaving us to go to Europe to pay $250,000,000 annually as interest on our gold debts authorized by the act of 1878. Under the gold standard, it is only a question of time when all our gold will leave us. We produce about $40,000,000 a year of gold and are sending $250,000,000 a year to Europe as interest on debts of ours held by foreigners. The gold being shipped back to us is borrowed gold that is increasing our gold debt to Europe and intensifying the situation. It means that in the future more gold must be annually shipped to Europe to pay our increasing gold interest. It means that we have committed ourselves to an erroneous financial system, and that the longer it lasts the greater our suffering must be in the end.

The gist of the financial question is in this: Men who deal in money are interested in making the property they deal in more and more valuable. This is a natural instinct in dealers in any property. A cattle man in Kansas who owns 10,000 head of cattle knows that he could make his 10,000 head of cattle worth considerably more to him if he could cause the sudden death of half the other cattle in the world.

The money dealer understands this principle, and knowing that money is made by law he has gone to where the law is made and caused the destruction of one-half the money of the world. He is a dealer in money. It is the property that he studies. When he makes his money so valuable that it will buy more and more of your property and mine, he is the gainer. When the farmer's wheat exchanges for less and less money, the farmer grows relatively poorer than the man who owns the money. The unfortunate circumstance that adds additional gravity to the situation is that the money dealer deals in a property upon which all civilization is depending. It is the blood of civilization in which he deals, and when he absorbs it he strangles civilization. When he depletes the arteries of commerce by hoarding about him this blood of civilization—society, arts, commerce—civilization itself is affected.

Free coinage of silver will relieve the strain on gold and break the grip of the money lender, whose fingers are now mercilessly tightening around the throat of this government. All is at stake in this struggle—our families, society and the republic itself.—W. H. Harvey in New York Journal.

WONDERFUL are the cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla, and yet they are simple and natural. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes PURE BLOOD.

SUMMED UP.

What the Present Agitation Means Tersely Set Forth In Paragraphs.

The idea that the overproduction of commodities is the cause of all trouble is refuted by the fact they are harder for the poor to get at their present prices than they would be at higher prices with full circulation, because it is harder now to get the half dollar than it used to be to get a dollar to buy them with.

If machinery has increased the product of commodities, it would also have increased the product of money of redemption if silver had not been demonetized. The relation between the two would have been approximately sustained. Stoppage of coinage without the stoppage of the production of commodities has limited the supply of money and increased the quantity of commodities. The cheapness of the commodities is but another expression for the dearness of money.

This question is one between labor and capital, and with the appreciation of money the laborer must always get less.

It is a question also between America and Europe. Europe, being a creditor country and America a debtor country, with dearer money Europe must get richer and America poorer.

It is a question between the masses of the people and a few magnates of wealth, and with dearer money the people must get poorer and the magnates richer.

It is a question between the taxpayer and government, and with dearer money the taxpayer must be more heavily burdened.

It is a question between debtor and creditor, and with dearer money the debtor must go to the wall.

It is a question between property and the charges upon it, and with dearer money property must be sacrificed and in many cases the creditor involved in ruin with his insolvent debtor.

It is a question between democracy and autocracy, and with dearer money the autocrats of the world have filled their strong boxes with American gold, dipped out of the treasury with greenbacks, and every monarch of the old world has been strengthened, while free, liberal and independent movements have been proportionately checked.

It is a question of America and her freemen on the one side and her rivals and enemies on the other side.—Senator John W. Daniel.

OH! WHAT A RELIEF.

"I suffered with terrible pains in my left ovary and womb. My back ached all the time.

"I had kidney trouble badly. Doctors prescribed for me, and I followed their advice, but found no relief until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Oh! what a relief it is, not to have that tired feeling day after day, in the morning as much as at night after a hard day's work, and to be free from all pains caused by Ovarian and Womb troubles. I cannot express my gratitude. I hope and pray that other suffering women will realize the truth and importance of my statement, and accept the relief that is sure to attend the use of the Pinkham Medicine."—Mrs. James Parrish, 2501 Marshall St., N. He Came to Time.

Last week during court in Summerville a murder case came up for trial. The defendant claimed his rights under the law, and a full panel of 48 men was summoned from which to get a jury. Slowly and one by one the solicitor put the usual questions as to their competency to try the case at issue. Finally a long, lank juror stood up in answer to his name and answered the questions all right until he stumbled upon this one:

"Are you conscientiously opposed to capital punishment?"

The juror didn't understand, and the question was repeated. Finally, after much hesitation, he seemed to grasp the idea and replied:

"Oh, I believe in hanging 'em when they need it!"

The court and the spectators smiled, while the defense sang out, "Object!"—Atlanta Constitution.

THE "SUN" HOW COLUMN

AN IDEA OF HOW INSANE PEOPLE ACT.

Horses, Cats and Dogs that Have Lost Their Wits—The Way Anchovies Are Caught—How to Make a Baked Rhubarb Pudding.

Insanity in the human subject, it is supposed by some, has no analogue in the lower animals. Yet many causes will lead to the permanent loss of all self control. Cattle driven from the country through the crowded thoroughfares of a town will, under the influence of this sudden change of condition, work themselves into a state of excitement and fury which must at least be closely allied to madness. Horses have been known to go mad in the midst of the bewildering scenes of a battlefield. At Balaklava an Arabian horse turned upon its attendant, who happened to be drawing water, seized him in its mouth, threw him to the ground and then kneeling on him attacked him like an infuriated dog. Before the terror could be subdued it had bitten off another soldier's finger and seriously wounded the army "vet."

Another instance is related of a docile horse which one hot summer suddenly went mad. Everything that came within its reach it seized in its teeth and shook like a terrier would a rat. It raided the pigsties and threw the inmates one after the other into the air, trampling on the bodies as they fell. Afterward it almost killed its own master after maiming for life the farrier who was called in. This, at least, must have been a case of insanity. The cause of such insanity is often to be found in congenital malformation of the bones of the head. A scientist of authority even goes so far as to prove by what appears to be incontestible evidence that animals—cats, dogs and monkeys—have been observed to have delusions very similar to those of insane people.

How Anchovies Are Caught.

The anchovy is a small fish about three inches long belonging to the herring family. It comes into the Mediterranean from the Atlantic in vast shoals for spawning, and is caught mostly in the months of May, June and July. It is taken at nighttime, when the small boats engaged in the fishery put out in numbers from the Italian shores, furnished at the stern with lights. The fish are attracted by these lights in immense numbers, and are literally ladled out of the water, for by no courtesy can the operation be called fishing. The best ground is at Gorgona, a small island off Leghorn. This fish was in former times tolerably common off the English coast.

How the House Bound May Get Air.

Elderly people and others who may be temporarily house bound and prevented from enjoying a regular daily stroll outdoors can devise a fair substitute as follows: Bundle up as if for the usual constitutional, select a large sunny room, preferably at the top of the house, open wide the windows, shut off the heat and move around briskly, going to the window and inhaling the fresh air deeply through the nostrils. We have often called attention to the fact that house air, with its many impurities, overheated condition and general lifelessness, is one of the principal predisposing causes to colds and catarrhal affections.

Where a patient or invalid is confined to bed, if the shoulders are kept well covered and the head lightly protected, the windows may be opened and the room flushed with fresh air without any special risk, provided the current does not strike them too directly. The danger from want of proper ventilation is decidedly greater. Deep inhalations of air at the open window, taken gently through the nose, impart an enlivening and tonic influence to the whole nervous system, which can soon be demonstrated by a personal experiment.

How to Make a Baked Rhubarb Pudding.

Five sticks of rhubarb, one-quarter pound of pounded sugar, one-quarter pound of butter, some stale bread. Line a pie dish with slices of bread and butter, cover with cut up rhubarb strewed with sugar and thin slices of bread and butter, and so on alternately until the dish is full, having the rhubarb and sugar on the top; cover with a plate and bake one-half hour. Serve hot.

How to Make Watermelon and Peach Ices.

Watermelon Ice.—Select very ripe and a very red watermelon. Save all the water and scrape all the red pulp fine. Allow a pound of sugar to a gallon of this liquid and freeze. When the ice is half frozen, add the well beaten whites of 3 eggs and stir the mass frequently from the bottom with a wooden spatula. The flavor of this ice naturally depends largely upon the quality of the melon.

Peach Ice.—Select a dozen nice ripe peaches, 2 lemons and 3 pints of clarified sugar. Pare the peaches and press the pulp through a sieve; then add the clarified sugar and lemon juice and freeze. When nicely frozen, mix thoroughly with the ice a meringue made of the whites of 2 eggs and 4 tablespoons of sugar. Set away for an hour before serving.

How to Cure Headache.

The latest "cure" for the relief of a headache is a hair cut. A London physician has met with great success in this treatment. It is not necessary that the hair should be cropped off short.

The curative property of the treatment is based on the fact that the tube which is contained in each single hair is severed in the process and the brain "bleeds," as the barbers say, thereby opening a safety valve for the congested cranium.

Try the cure when next attacked by headache, and if the result be not satisfactory, rest assured that it is not the fault of the prescription, but that the head is so wooden that it "wooden't act."

How to Make Baked Plum Pudding.

Eight crackers rolled fine, 4 eggs well beaten, a quart of milk, three-fourths cup of sugar, 2 tablespoonfuls butter, one-fourth teaspoonful salt, one-fourth nutmeg, one-half teaspoonful cinnamon, a pound raisins, seeded. Mix all but eggs, then add them, beaten very light. Bake in a moderate oven about an hour and a half.

CONFESSION OF A PIE EATER.

How He Became a Slave and Some Pies He Has Met.

In looking over my past career I feel it to be but proper that I admit that I have always been a slave of the so called pernicious pie habit. I cannot remember how long ago I ate my first piece of pie, nor can I state with any degree of accuracy the date upon which I surrendered my manhood or rather childhood and willingly thrust my neck into the yoke which still encircles it. But I will admit that the taste is not an acquired one with me, as I enjoyed my first piece of pie quite as keenly as I did the last wedge, which is still gyrating madly within me undigested and measuring itself, so to speak, against my gastric meter.

When I was a small boy, I could never quite understand why the pie, which was the best part of the dinner, should always come on last when every one's appetite was satisfied. It seemed to me that the pie should come first. Then it often struck me that if the pie were to lead the meal all interest would cease with the last mouthful, whereas if entered as the epilogue of the prandial drama the other parts, from the very ring of the bell, would bristle with the barbed wire or epicurean interest.

Again, I often marveled in vain at the idea of having a fish dinner and not a pie dinner. It seemed to me a paradox that defied explanation. I never knew and do not know until this day which kind of pie is my favorite because I like each and every kind, with or without cheese, although eaten with a fork, a spoon or au naturel out of the hand. Some philosopher has called the uncovered or decollete pie—that is, the one which is exposed to the light and the critical naked eye—the open faced pie. This, of course, refers to those specimens which represent the custard, the cocoanut and the pumpkin, which do not wear vests or chest protectors of crust.

The pie that has an upper crust should be called a hunting case pie, while the cranberry, having strips of crust running over its roof in a regular latticework of suspenders, should be regarded as a striped pie for the English and a plaid pie for the Scotch. I cannot help recalling an idea that occurred to me when I was a little boy about eight or ten hands high. It was a curious idea relating to the suspenders of the cranberry pie in this interrogatory form: Are the suspenders to keep the cranberries in the pie, and if so are they buttoned to the under edge of the plate, like an all wool theatrical ocean, or are they fastened down with glue?

The Washington pie I liked from a purely patriotic impulse, although the slices of apple were imbedded in the foundation of dough after the manner of cobblestones, until they seemed, from the regularity of their upturned edges, like the bay of Naples as it appears, wind dimpled, in a coffee chromo.

Hitting the pie and hitting the pipe are both habits which hold one with an iron grip. Since the day I fell I have been a willing vassal of the insidious destroyer and have made a study of pie and pie poisoning in all its ramifications.

The great, thick country pie, whether round or oblong, is the ideal pie of the heart, and when the poet's fingers are folded over the arc of a circle he acknowledges with outspread wings that even if lost in the great Sahara desert he would sigh, not so much for the crystal spring as for the great American "dessert," and if suddenly possessed of some of the latter would acknowledge himself a vassal melting in the vaseline of ineffable ecstasy. Take one of these small urban pies which are molded and turned out by the thousand like cheap watches, and the chances are that you will not want to take another seriously if at all. The only advantage this small pie has is that it may be held in the hand like a quoit, that it doesn't ooze, drip or disintegrate, and that it is in a certain sense antiseptic. In one of these stem-winding pies death lurks even when its true character is hidden from the mind's eye by the cunning artificer beneath whose touch the meringue conceit quickens and blossoms in infinite beauty.

Give me the old, honest, homely, farmhouse pie, with no other ornamentation than a few rude and unstudied fork jabs in its ecru breast to prevent its losing its wind. And give me plenty of it and also supply me with plenty of elbow room and a large, imperial, nickel plated tin appetite, that I may do the dish justice and show my appreciation with the ardor of a patriot, because pie is an American institution upon which the American eagle stands in heartfelt pride as if to maintain the traditions of independence and to hurl contumely into the false face of the invader. But the city pie is not inspiring in a strict sense. It is, so to speak, alien and exotic, especially when eaten against time at the noonday hour, for then the eater stands upon his feet and eats in so great a hurry that to all outward appearances his entire physical system is brought into play, the masseter and deltoid muscles are strained to their utmost tension, the eyes are dilated and the hat bobs in frantic glee, while the pie eater snaps off a mouthful and seems to leap in the air as if to climb it.

Such a slave can mix his pie—that is, eat various kinds—until his stomach becomes a kaleidoscope of pie. The pumpkin, breathing of the cornfield; the cocoanut, full of tropical suggestion, and the mince, which is out of date during the dog days because it bays the moon, are one to him. He has an ostrich stomach for pie. He is a pirate for pie, and he eats pie for breakfast to begin the day right, then he eats it for dinner to preserve a high average of enamored thought, and finally for supper from motives of gratitude for his daily pie. He has pie heart, and goes right on eating his favorite dainty although he destroys his complexion, and he would keep on even if the practice should render his digestive organs effete, which would, of course, be impossible.

The rose may perish on the summer stem and our idols be snatched from us in the tenderest beauty of their bloom. Dynasties may fade from the earth and the columns of the early ages crumble in slow decay; but the pie is infinite and eternal. It defies alike the hand and the teeth of time, for so long as time has a hand in which to hold it and teeth with which to eat it it will exist in all its pristine glory and fill the heart of man with the living melody of its antique song.—R. K. Munkittrick in New York Sunday World.

EXCHANGED SHOT

Strikers and Militia Have a Battle.

Cleveland, O., August 4—Shooting by the militia began today in the vicinity of the Brown Hoisting company's works this morning.

Upon seeing the soldiers, the men started to run away, and when they refused to halt the soldiers opened fire. The strikers returned fire and for a time a fusilade was kept up.

One of the fugitives was seen to fall, but he quickly arose and disappeared in the darkness. None of the soldiers were hurt.

COMMUNICATION.

Why these hard times? Why do the present hard times exist? is a question certainly every gold-man should ask himself. In 1892 the democratic platform was for hard money or in other words in favor of the gold standard. Pres. Cleveland was overwhelmingly elected upon it. What has been the result? According to the gold men everything should have been booming. Has it been? If it has not been, what probability is there that it would be, in the next four years supposing McKinley should be elected and a gold congress with him? Why not judge the future by the past in this matter. We do so in all other matters. Is it not true that times have continued to grow worse and worse? Is it not more than probable they will continue to go from bad to worse unless a change is made. We have given the gold standard a long and fair trial and the result is before us. Is it any wonder the Kansas farmers have had all they want of gold times? When they have to sell their eggs for five cents a dozen, their butter for from 6 to 8 cents a pound, their pork for two and one-half cents a pound, their oats for seven cents a bushel, their corn for from seven to nine cents and their wheat for 35 cents a bushel. These Kansas farmers are our customers, they are the consumers of Lowell manufactures? Can there be any prosperity under such conditions? Is there any prospect of a change for the better? That there is none all must admit. Can a change make things worse? It certainly does not seem so. Let the workingmen of Lowell consider these things carefully, for it is of vital importance to them. Why won't just this state of affairs continue (only worse) if McKinley is elected and the gold standard continues. What is the remedy? Very simple, indeed. Vote for a change, vote for Bryan and free silver. There is not the slightest danger in doing so, for times can't be worse than they are now. Any change is preferable to the present conditions.

GARRETT'S WILL

Makes His Wife Legatee to Millions.

Belief, However, That Some Will Be Remembered.

Baltimore, Aug. 5.—Two wills made by the late Robert Garrett were given to the press last night. They were filed for probate at Towson today. The first will was drawn in Baltimore in 1883, and substantially names his wife as sole devisee and legatee. The second instrument was executed in London, July 5, 1888, a short while after the tragic death of his brother, T. Harrison Garrett.

In the last document, $100,000 is bequeathed to each of the three children of his brother; $200,000 to William F. Frick, his father-in-law; $30,000 to Charles Nitze, his home d'affaires, and $20,000 to A. B. Crain, Mr. Garrett's private secretary. All the rest and residue of the estate is given to his wife, Mary Frick Garrett, absolutely, who, together with her father, William F. Frick, are named executors.

It is thought by some intimate friends of the family that the reason for probating both wills is the fact that the last one was executed just at the commencement of Mr. Garrett's long continued sickness, and in view of this fact, it was deemed advisable to prove both instruments.

As the widow is the residuary devisee and legatee under both wills, from the fact of proving both, it seems to be evident that she intends to adopt the last one, although in derogation of her rights, under the will of 1883, as it makes the specific bequests to his brother's children and others. The executors have given a full power of attorney to Charles Nitze to act for them in all matters relating to the business of Robert Garrett & Sons, of which the deceased was the sole surviving partner.

Some surprise was expressed that Mr. Garrett, in view of the fact that he was known to be a promoter of many charities, did not provide for them in either will. This is explained, however, in the clause in which he states that his wife was well acquainted with his plans in this direction, and he was satisfied that she would cary out his views.

Will Be No Panic.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—There will be no panic here as a result of the failure of the Moore Bros. Both the Diamond Match and New York Biscuit companies are asserted to be in good condition, and are expected to recover from the failure. Menaced raids have been warded off by the closing of the Chicago Stock Exchange, which will remain closed indefinitely. As the match and biscuit stocks have been almost the only stocks dealt in, it is not believed that the closing of the Exchange will interfere with general financial affairs. Financiers say that there is no danger of panic, nor is there any likelihood of any serious results.

Peary's Steamer Hung Up.

Gloucester, Mass., Aug. 5.—Professor R. S. Tarr, who started with Lieutenant Peary on an Arctic geological expedition in the steamer Hope, has written to his family in this city that the steamer is hung up in the floe off the Greenland coast. The letter was evidently hurriedly written, and does not give all the details to make a connected story. The last previously heard from the Hope she was spoken off the Labrador coast, and was reported all well. Professor Tarr's letter does not speak as if the vessel was in any immediate danger.

Taking It Easy.

Saratoga, Aug. 5.—Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., are among the numerous grooms and brides who are passing their honeymoon here. They passed yesterday quietly. The congratulations of a host of friends, the receipt of numerous felicitous telegrams, a pleasant drive to the Geysers, Woodlawn park and Saratoga lake, a brief shopping expedition, and an evening concert on the United States hotel piazza, rounded out the day for them.

Murder on a Portland Brig.

Portland, Me., Aug. 5.—Word has just been received here from Captain Wallace, of the Portland brig Henry B Cleaves, stating that while lying in the port of San Juan, Porto Rico, the mate struck the cook over the head with a belaying pin, knocking him down a hatchway and killing him instantly. The mate and crew were arrested by the American consul, and are now on their way to Baltimore, where the mate will be tried for murder.

Trocha In Danger.

Habana, Aug. 5.—There are indications that an attack is imminent upon the trocha. Bandera is encamped near Mangas, in Pinar del Rio, and Lacret is maintaining a watch upon the trocha near Canas, prepared to second Bandera's attack. From Artemisa, answering signals of red lights are seen at night in insurgent camps.

Rhodes May Wriggle Out of It.

London, Aug. 5.—The Daily Mail states that the government has taken no steps to prosecute Cecil Rhodes for his complicity in the Jameson raid into the Transvaal, and that law officers of the crown are ridiculing the prosecution under the foreign enlistment act. The Daily Mail believes that Rhodes has determined to have the verdict of an English jury, and that otherwise he will feel himself entitled to refuse to give evidence before the select committee of parliament, to investigate the administration of Rhodes and the circumstances of the Jameson raid.

Yankee Enterprise In Korea.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 5.—A dispatch from Vladivostock announces that Korea has conceded to a syndicate of Americans the right to construct a railroad from Seoul, the capital, to Chemulpo, the main port and harbor. The Americans, in addition, have the right to work the minerals along the line of this road. Other concessions have been granted to France and Russia. Seoul is now quiet.

INTERESTING TESTIMONY.

At the Inquest Into the Cause of the New Jersey Railway Disaster.

Atlantic City, Aug. 5.—There were several new developments at yesterday's session of Coroner McLaughlin's inquest into Thursday night's disaster, by which 44 persons were killed and as many more injured. All the men most nearly concerned in the accident gave testimony, including Night Towerman Hauser, Fireman Hallahan and Conductor Pinkerton of the Reading express, and Engineer Greiner and Fireman Newell of the excursion train. Arthur Stiles, a resident of Atlantic City, who was riding on his wheel along the turnpike road and saw the collision, also testified.

Nearly all these witnesses agreed that Engineer Edwin Farr of the Reading train, who was found dead with his hand on the throttle, had done everything in his power to stop his train when he saw that a collision was imminent, and every one of them, except Greiner, stated or inferred that the West Jersey train could either have been stopped after Engineer Greiner saw the Reading thundering along toward him, or handled so that only the two engines would have come together. This would have meant death to the men in the two cabs, very likely, but it would have saved the passenger coaches.

Conductor Pinkerton of the Reading train said this in so many words. He also gave the impression that the signal could not have been properly worked. According to his interpretation of Engineer Farr's whistle, a certain signal had been given the Reading train, and then suddenly changed to another. The first must have been the right of way signal and the second the danger. Farr whistled to know which was right, but it was too late to stop the train.

Engineer Greiner declared that he was guided only by signals, regardless of the approach of other trains. He got the signal of right of way, and he continued on, but he had known of instances when the signals had been changed quickly. The present indications are that the inquest will consume several more days.

Li Hung Chang's Movements.

London, Aug. 5. — Li Hung Chang, dressed in a yellow robe, and accompanied by a number of attendants, was present in the house of commons yesterday. He was escorted to a seat beneath the gallery, and listened to the debate on the Scotch agricultural rates bill. Secretary Curzon explained the leading features of the house to the distinguished traveler, who appeared to be much interested. In the afternoon, Li Hung Chang had an audience with the Marquis of Salisbury. Li was borne into the audience room on a chair, in order to avoid the fatigue of mounting the stairs. He wore a yellow jacket, the peacock feather and a claret-colored skirt.

Charges Were Groundless.

Washington, Aug. 5.—The navy department, after careful examination, has found to be regular in every respect, the record of the court martial which investigated the charges made against Lieutenant Commander Colwell of the ram Katahdin by a disgruntled machinist, and the record of honorable acquittal stands without change. The charges were to the effect that the officer treated the men harshly and with needless severity, but the court found that there was absolutely no warrant for the charges.

Even the Governor Not Safe.

Athens, Aug. 5.—Hassa Pasha has been reinstated as governor of Heraklion, in the Island of Crete, as being the only man able to cope with the situation. On his refusing to admit to the town a mob of Mussulmans, who were bringing in the bodies of two Mussulmans shot by insurgents, he was torn from his horse and severely maltreated. The situation is critical, and thousands of armed Mussulmans are thronging to Heraklion unchecked. The Christian residents are in a state of panic, and Turkish troops have been sent from Canea to restore order. Serious fighting is reported from Macedonia. Two hundred insurgents inflicted severe losses on 300 Turkish troops at Sarantapore's pass, near Elassona. Two bodies of insurgents at Katranitsa, after two days' hot siege by 1200 Turks, cut their way through toward Sorovitsovo.

Boomers Not Discouraged.

Mena, Ark., Aug. 5.—Two thousand campers, who came here to witness the advent into Mena of the Kansas City, Pittsburg and Gulf railway, and to take up homesteads, were given a setback Monday night, their tents and outfits having been wrecked and scattered by a severe rainstorm. Many men have brought large families with them to take up claims in the new town, and yesterday men, women and children spent the time hunting for their belongings, which had been blown in every direction. Despite the setback, the boomers made considerable progress, and homesteading is going on at a rapid rate. Schooners are arriving hourly from every direction. The storm has effectually broken a two months' drought.

Next Meeting at Boston.

Worcester, Mass., Aug. 5.—The convention of the state branch of the Federation of Labor concluded its session yesterday. FAULKNER SEES CLASS ISSUES IN METHODS

Of Warfare Pursued by the Republicans.

Washington, Aug. 5.—Chairman Jones of the Democratic national committee, yesterday corrected certain misapprehensions which have arisen from published interviews with him within the last day or two. "I did not say that Mr. Bryan would not accept the Populist nomination," said Mr. Jones, "for I have no authority to say that. I did not say that as a general rule the southern Populists were not a creditable class. On the contrary, I said that most of them were patriotic men, who were working for a cause; that they were Populists because they had believed they could promote their cause best through a new party; and that now they would support Bryan because it was shown that their patriotic objects could be attained only through his election. This is what I said of the southern Populists as a rule. As an exception, I spoke of the class who were not creditable. I said there were some who were Populists merely for their personal advancement; some who had become Populists through selfish, and not patriotic motives. I spoke of these as the exceptional class, who would not support Mr. Bryan. I said that as a rule the Populists in the south would follow the patriotic course, and support Bryan; that there were some, who for selfish motives, would not do so, but would prefer to have McKinley elected."

The Democratic congressional headquarters have become a rendezvous for Democratic leaders until the national headquarters are established. Chairman Jones was at work there early on his mail. Later, Chairman Faulkner of the congressional committee was joined by Senator Gorman, Senator Stewart, ex-Governor Black, president of the association of Democratic clubs. Chairman Chilton of the West Virginia state committee, and Representative Capehart of West Virginia. The talk was on general politics, although Senators Gorman and Faulkner went into secret session on certain branches of campaign work. Mr. Faulkner and his associates expressed much satisfaction with the results in Alabama and at Brunswick, Md., yesterday, where the Democrats carried the town, they assert, on the silver question. In speaking of the general status of the situation, Chairman Faulkner said: "I am beginning to fear that our opponents will force the issue away from one of economic questions and make it an issue between corporations and wealth, on one hand, and the poor people on the other—in short, a class issue. The danger is ahead, and when a class issue comes no one can tell where it will lead. We have not sought such an issue. We have been willing to discuss an economic question, but our opponents will not discuss the silver question further than to ridicule it and assail its exponents, and now by the organization of their committees they have made their contest one essentially representative of wealth and corporate influence. I say I regret to see that the opposition is surely forcing this dangerous class issue to the front."

At the Republican congressional headquarters 500,000 pieces of literature have been sent out within the last 24 hours. Of these, 250,000 are small "Pasters," giving McKinley's view on money.

The committee continues to be deluged with requests for literature. One of Acting Chairman Apsley's letters from Indiana said: "The silver craze is dying out, and we must go at 'em with tariff literature."

Workmen are busy cleaning up Wormley's hotel, which adds to the impression that the old hostelry will become the national Democratic headquarters.

Senator Jones left the city last night for New York, to consult with the leaders, who are making arrangements for the Bryan and Sewall notification meeting. He probably will return here Friday.

Gainsburg. Monday he came to this city and presented the credit letter to the Union bank of Canada. He had filled it to the extent of $2500, and made a draft on Ladenberg, Thalman & Co. for the same amount, whose endorsement he had forged, payable to Ludwig Grunig. All banks had been notified of the missing letter of credit, and the teller, becoming suspicious, asked the young man to call again. In the meantime the detective was notified, and Grunig was arrested. He broke down, and confessed that his troubles were due to stock speculations. He is a young man of good address.

ALL DRANK WATER

Boulevard Driven Wells Inspected Yesterday.

THEY WERE PRONOUNCED EXCELLENT BY AUTHORITIES.

Contractors Entertain Local and Visiting Guests.

There was water to drink at one's pleasure at the Boulevard plant yesterday afternoon and it was a party of good judges that partook of it liberally, and who were loud in their praises of its clearness, coolness and purity.

The occasion was an inspection of the new driven well plant at the Boulevard, the finest in Lowell, if not in the eastern country, by a party of out-of-town men, the water board and several other invited ones who were the guests of Messrs. B. F. and C. G. Smith, the persevering Boston firm of well drivers, who overcoming every obstacle brought forth from a depth of 40 feet the best water Lowell has ever had.

The Boston people arrived shortly after one o'clock and were driven to the city hall, where the entire party took carriages for the driven well plant at the Boulevard. In the party were Messrs. C. G. and B. F. Smith of the driven well firm, Major W. D. Fiske and J. B. Lampman of the Knowles Pump Mfg. Co. of Boston, George E. Pickering of the Walworth Mfg. Co. of South Boston, F. H. Brown of the Davis and Farnham Foundry of Waltham, Peter French of the National Tube Works, Boston; D. W. Tenney, Water Commissioner of Methuen, Miles Brennan, formerly of Lowell water board, Messrs. George E. Putnam, Stephen Jones, F. L. Weaver, Charles E. Howe and August Fels of the Lowell water board, Supt. Thomas of the water works, City Engineer Bowers, Asst. Engineer Sullivan, City Solicitor Qua, and newspaper representatives.

The driven well plant was inspected and its workings explained. Messrs. Smith came here under the impression that there was no water to be had at that point but they started testing in July 1895 and have at last met with great success after most trying of difficulties.

On a line 1800 feet long at the upper end of the boulevard they have sunk 108 2 1-2 inch wells at an average depth of 40 feet. Each well if worked individually will yield 60 gallons of water a minute. The contract calls for a yield of between 2 and 3 million gallons per day. They were allowed $1500 to test in the locality, the money to be received in case they were unsuccessful. If they decided to sink, they were obliged to give that yield daily at $13,000, a million gallons for the capacity. Besides this, they own the wells for one year from the time they begin active work and get $10 per million gallons for their work. This includes every expense caused by the operation of the plant. At the end of one year, April 17, 1897, the city can purchase the plant from the Messrs. Smith at 75 per cent. of its cost.

The wells are now yielding five million gallons per day, of the purest water to be obtained hereabouts.

City Engineer Bowers believes that the water drains from the sand hills on the opposite side of the river and perculates through a stratum of sand under the river at a depth of 40 feet.

Tests have shown the water to be exceptionally pure.

From the wells the water goes to the old inlet house at the lower end of the boulevard by means of a pipe conduit. There it passes through an eight foot filter gallery, and from there to the pumping station, both of which places were visited by the party, and inspected.

Supper was taken at the Richardson house, congratulatory remarks being made by Messrs. Putnam and Bowers, and later the party took special cars for Lakeview, when the evening was enjoyed.

Jackson Injured.

While Charles Jackson was driving a dump cart through Prince street yesterday he fell from his seat and the wheels passed over him. He resumed work but his injuries assumed a serious turn and today he was removed to the corporation hospital in the ambulance. He was in the employ of Charles Clapp, the well known stable man.

LIVING TORTURE.

Painful Condition of a Lowell Citizen and His Relief.

A disease which is accompanied with sharp pains at every turn wears upon the patient so terribly that life becomes nothing but a torture. Misery, misery, year after year, is enough to utterly discourage one and wish it was all over. Neither can we blame such an invalid for all the morbid thoughts of life that may arise. Mr. F. D. Sawyer, residing at 118 Walker street, has undoubtedly a keen recollection of the tortures of Kidney disease, and he is glad it is but a recollection, as anyone who had suffered ten years, would be. He has for seventeen years driven a soda wagon, and the constant jolting and jumping off the wagon and on, produced a terrible condition of the kidneys. He has been so bad at times as to be utterly unable to do a thing. He has doctored, taken many remedies, worn plasters and plasters, and all to no real good. Often he was quite unable to dress himself. His nights were sleepless from pain, and it was impossible to find any position of ease in bed. Added to all this came urinary trouble to lend its misery to the general woe. A few weeks ago he had an unusually bad attack, and having read what Doan's Kidney Pills were doing right here in Lowell, he got a box of Ellingwood & Co., Merrimack and Central streets. He adds: "They surprised me. I have not felt as I do now in years, and I want to give you a strong testimonial in gratitude to the Pills."

Chairman Poore of the Republican City Committee Appears for Lowell.

The County Commisioners met yesterday at East Cambridge and gave a hearing to the represenatives of 54 cities and towns in this county with reference to the redistricting of Middlesex county into new representatives districts, four new represenatives being allowed the county.

Every part of the county was heard from including Lowell in whose intrest? George W. Poore chairman of the Republican city committee asked that Lowell be divided as follows: wards 1, 2, 3 and 6 in one district; wards 4, 7, and 8 and the towns of Tyngsboro, Dunstable, Westford and Chelmsford in another district, and ward 5 and 9 and the towns of Tewxbury, Wilmington, Reading, Billerica, Burlington, Dracut, Carlisle and North Reading in another district. Each of the districts have three represenatives. Owing to the recent change in ward lines, the commissioners will make several changes in the districts in this city. The statement handed in by Mr. Poore was authorized by the republican city committee, and is said to bar all democrats.

NOT A CANDIDATE

Hon. George W. Fifield Writes Chairman Hogan

STATING WHY HE CANNOT ACCEPT A NOMINATION

For Congress in this District at Present.

The following letter of declination to be a candidate for congress, has been mailed by Hon. George W. Fifield, and puts an end to the speculation as to whether he would accept the nomination:

John J. Hogan, Esq.,
Chairman 5th Congressional District Committee.

Dear Sir,—Through you I wish to say to the democrats of this 5th congressional district that it will be impossible for me to become the party's candidate at the coming election, as I do not approve of the financial plank in the Chicago platform. Besides, my private and other interests demand my whole time.

It having been the custom to extend to a candidate the courtesy of a second nomination, I take this early opportunity to communicate this decision to you, that there may be ample time to consider candidates before the convention, and that you may be able to shape your affairs and select your candidate.

The candidate from this district, if elected would be expected to support the national administration and platform. I could not and would not, as I consider the financial doctrine laid down in the Chicago platform to be unwise and mischievous.

W. J. Bryan, the democratic nominee is honest, able and frank; I protest only against his financial policy and that of the platform. My objections are so strong on this question, that I should turn to McKinley, the republican nominee, but find him equally objectionable. He is neither honest, able nor frank on this or any other issue; his every utterance and act throughout his public career confirms this. He was regarded by all the silver delegates from the radical states and territories at the St. Louis convention as one of their kind; they were instructed for him, and regarded him as a man after their own hearts, and all who remained in the convention voted for him, and those who went out would have done so had they not bolted on account of the gold plank forced into the platform against the wishes of his manager and mortgagee. But we are told that although McKinley is wrong financially and fundamentally, he stands on a gold platform. So he does, but unfortunately the candidate is elected, and not the platform. If the St. Louis convention wanted or intended to nominate a sound money candidate for the presidency, a man of honesty, ability, frankness, courage, and sound financially, was presented to that convention in Thomas B. Reed. But he was rejected for one who is lacking in all these qualities. We find in the Chicago platform a financial plank, which I believe to be unsound and undemocratic. We find in the St. Louis platform a sound financial plank and a candidate nominated upon it who is unsound financially and adds to it "McKinleyism," which is a stench in the nostrils of all self-respecting men, a candidate who is owned, controlled, managed and mortgaged to one Hanna and a few of his kind politically, socially, financially and disgustingly. Between the two evils I consider W. J. Bryan to be the least.

I take this opportunity to express to you my high appreciation of the honor conferred on me by your nomination in 1894, and hope to again be in full sympathy with you when the storm of the silver heresy has passed.

GEORGE W. FIFIELD.

SILVER CAMPAIGN

Populists Voted Democratic Ticket in Alabama.

HON. GEORGE FRED WILLIAMS SPEAKS AT WOBURN.

Rousing Rally by the Democrats There.

The silver cause is still progressing in this state and elsewhere.

The overwhelming majority for the democratic candidate in Alabama surprised the representatives of all three parties in that state, and induced the belief—expressed publicly and exultantly at democratic headquarters, and privately and sorrowfully at the headquarters of the republicans and the populists—that like results would occur in North Carolina and all other southern states where it has been hoped by the republicans and populists that they might win by combination, at least in state elections.

Now the forces that gave Johnston 42,000 majority will work hard for the choice of a silver senator from that state.

The democrats of Maine have declared for the silver standard, and as many republicans are indignant because McKinley defeated Reed; they may be won over to the democratic cause.

Bryan will cause a great commotion in that benighted state. The only trouble is that there is scarcely a silver organ in the state.

Hon. George Fred Williams addressed a big rally at Woburn last night.

Among some of the things Mr. Williams said were the following:

"The intuition of the common people of America, as a distinguished English economists has said, has finally brought this country to the prospect of the solution of a great world's problem. The common people as they are called—the great middle classes of this country—have decided for themselves what it is that has been dragging down the industries of this country for many years past, until they are now suffering and almost in ruin, and the issue of the monetary system has been forced upon the politicians by the true instincts of a great-headed and strong-headed people. (Applause.) And we are now thus early discussing the great question which another distinguished English authority has referred to in these words: 'It is with the firm conviction that the principles of bi-metalism are principles which make not only the prosperity of this kingdom an entire power, but the welfare of the whole civilized world.'

To that I second the resolution. We are engaged upon a problem that involves all the civilized world—the solution of a problem which has been waiting years and years for the action of France or England or Russia or Austria, and, after having heard about an international agreement until our ears are tired, the American people have announced their purpose to secure the inestimable boon of bi-metallism by their own independent action. (Applause.)

The advantage of high authority I can pretty well illustrate by reading these words of an Englishman: "It is significant," he says, "to see that our opponents' arguments grow lesser, and their language stronger, as they feel the ground slipping from under their feet. (Applause.)

This gentleman, whose words I have twice cited, is Mr. Evelyn Hubbard, one of the associate directors of the bank of England, an eminent authority upon finance, who was for years a single gold standard man, as eager and determined in his cause as any man in England, and those words which I have read you are from a speech delivered by him, in which he admitted his past error and confessed his complete conversion to the merits of bimetallism. (Great applause.)

Here is good news from Lawrence from the Sun of that city, formerly republican:

Every city in the Merrimack valley will roll up a majority for Bryan and Sewall. The Sun is in touch with the people and knows whereof it affirms.

From Lowell to the sea the Chicago ticket and platform are daily increasing in strength.

Up over the line in New Hampshire the story is the same.

Since the Sun bolted Boss Hanna and his candidate McKinley we have been constantly in receipt of hearty congratulations from throughout New England.

Many of these are from silver republicans in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. These republicans, alone, once they got started are going to play havoc with the gold bugs.

Democrats are burying their differences, where differences have existed, and uniting in support of the ticket.

In Lawrence the gold republicans are in a state of indifference and have as yet given no sign of life. They haven't even ratified McKinley's nomination, and the old time party spirit seems to have utterly vanished.

The Lawrence democrats, on the other hand, have already held a great mass meeting, listened to and applauded Geo. Fred Williams, and are preparing for a vigorous campaign.

The sentiment prevailing among the 18,000 or 20,000 mill workers in this city is almost overwhelmingly in favor of Bryan, Sewall and silver. They discuss the great issues at the meetings of their labor unions and in Lawrence this means a great deal of intelligent consideration as nearly every trade is well organized.

Bryan and Sewall will carry Lawrence with a rush, enthusiastic, irresistible, overwhelming.

And the Sun is doing all it can to contribute to that glorious result.

FISHER H. PEARSON RESIGNS

FROM THE YOUNG MEN'S DEMOCRATIC CLUB.

He Wants Nothing to Do With a Club That Repudiates the Democratic Platform.

Hon. Fisher H. Pearson has sent the following letter to the Young Men's Democratic club. It is self explanatory:

Lowell, Mass., Aug. 4, 1896.
Robert J. Paine, Jr., Sec.

Dear Sir:—The Young Men's Democratic club of Massachusetts having seen fit, through its executive committee, to belie its name, by repudiating the regularly adopted platform of the democratic party, and by rejecting the regularly nominated candidates of the party; I feel that there is no place in its membership, for one who believes in the principles of that party, in its candidates, and in the duty which every loyal democrat owes, to abide by the will of the majority, when honestly exercised.

The Mail vote recently taken convinces me, that the club proposes to bolt the democratic ticket, and to unite with the republican party, in binding more tightly, the fetters of industrial and financial slavery upon the masses; and I refuse to be in any way, a party to such action.

I therefore tender my resignation as a member of the Young Men's Democratic club.

Very respectfully yours,
FISHER H. PEARSON.

THE GREAT L. I. B. PICNIC

A GREAT TURNOUT FOR LYNN TODAY.

Thousands Went by Special Trains and Electric Cars.

At early morning in many Lowell households today, were scenes of great activity and preparation for what is looked forward to with pleasant anticipation as one of the big picnic events of the season, the annual excursion of the Lowell Irish Benevolent society to Lynn.

The excursion of today was the twenty-eighth annual picnic of the Benevolents to the still popular beach at the "City of Shoes."

The first picnic was held 44 years ago at Old Excelsior grove on the Stonybrook road, then one of the leading pleasure resorts in New England. At that time the late John Quinn, who was the president of the society, was general manager and the assistant was the vice president, who holds the same position today, Morgan Riley.

The steam cars have always been utilized by the organization and today was no exception, but the electric cars attracted a vast crowd that would have gone the usual way. At an early hour St. Patrick's Cadet band paraded the principal streets under the guidance of General Manager Driscoll and people flocked both to the Northern depot and Merrimack square. The electrics were the first to start for Lynn and from 6.25 o'clock every half hour the jumbo cars, each with a seating capacity of 65 persons, went out from Lowell packed. The first special train to leave Lowell was one of twelve cars.

Every seat was occupied, and over 700 persons must have gone in that train.

The next train followed five minutes afterwards, and carried about 150 persons, a great falling off from previous years.

Another special went at 11 o'clock, and brought but a small load, including ticket sellers and members of the committee, who remained over.

A great many Lowellians, probably 200 persons, went on the early train to Boston and thence on the electric cars to Lynn.

The Benevolents carry with them the American flag and the large green flag presented to them by the citizens of Lynn. A member of the picnic committee informed the Sun reporter that the people who went by the electrics would have to pay for dancing and other privileges at the beach. Besides, all outsiders who will undertake to come back on the regular picnic train will have to pay full fare to Lowell just as though they went and came on a regular train. The Star orchestra and St. Patrick's band are furnishing music at the beach, and the Lowell police officers doing duty are "Con" Howard, Hugh Maguire, J. J. Crowley and Curran. The committeemen in charge of the picnic are: General manager, J. J. Driscoll; floor director, Timothy Brennan; secretary and treasurer, Hugh C. McOsker; aids, Morgan Riley, John Whitty, D. J. Regan, James Howard, John Donohoe, James Hylan, Frank McNabb, John J. Brady, J. D. Finnegan, Anthony McCarron, Hugh Golden and Peter Sheehan.

THE BILLERICA DEMOCRATS

LOCKED OUT OF THE TOWN HALL LAST NIGHT.

A Cowardly Way of Opposing the Cause of Silver—The Speakers Were on Hand But Had to Go to an Engine House.

The democrats of North Billerica organized last evening and formed a town committee, the organizers and speakers being Philip J. Farley, Thomas M. Harrigan, Edward McMahon and Frank J. Simonds.

Some one, either the school committee or the selectmen went back on their promise to open the town hall, it is said, and as a result it was necessary to call the meeting on the common. Later the unterrified democrats were tendered the use of the engine house and the meeting concluded very successfully.

Mr. Harrigan was chosen chairman and Thomas Mullen, secretary. The town committee was chosen as follows: Thomas Harrigan, Patrick Connolly, Michael Coughlin, Michael McElligot, Wm. Chambers, Joseph Holt and John Harrington. Mr. Harrigan, the Billerica organizer, was much disappointed at the hall being closed, because he had gone before the selectmen and got the promise of it.

The matter will now be settled finally. The democrats must have the hall despite all opposition.

IS VERY WARY IN CONSIDERING SEVERAL BILLS.

The Recent Indictments Will Cause Officials to be More Cautious in Regard to Expending the City's Money.

The city council is decidedly shy since the grand jury mixed itself in local affairs, and the committee on accounts at its meeting yesterday afternoon gave unmistakable evidence of the effect of a "horrible example" by declining to approve two bills.

S. H. Jones of the water board presented six bills for piping and they all aggregate $1000. After some discussion the committee refused to approve the bill. Of course Mr. Jones will get his money some time.

Then a bill of $30 owed the firm of A. G. Stiles & Co. was refused as Councilman Hallett was a member of the firm.

It was voted that Auditor Chase be given power to approve bills from the reserved fund for the new shooting range and for the grand stand erected in front of city hall for the Fourth of July. This was done on the condition that the Mayor first approve the bills.

A bill from a coal merchant was examined and when it was learned that the coal had been weighed on the merchant's scales, rather than on the city scales, a discussion was held, though the bill went through.

There was more talk over a little bill presented by Charles Clapp for interest which he claims is owed on the money he failed to get through the horse deal.

The bill has been tabled a number of times and each time it was presented it has been for a larger amount. The bill was laid on the table. Councilman Wilson said: "We can't approve that document until a settlement has been reached in the case.

A GREAT DISCOVERY.

Scientist Thinks He Can Transmit Images by Wire.

Has the problem of "seeing through a wire"—that is to say, of transmitting visible images electrically, just as we now do speech—at last been solved?

That is the question which just now more or less interests the scientific world. For a long time eminent men of science—men like Professor Graham Bell, E. J. Houston and others—have been predicting that one of these days we should be able to transmit pictures through a wire just as we now talk through a telephone. It is one of the things that have been on the edge of the future.

Simultaneously from Sweden and California come announcements of the solution of the puzzle. Just what the Swedish inventor, who is described as a prominent physicist in his own country, has been able to do is not disclosed—there is a mere announcement of his success.

Dr. Frank M. Close of Oakland, Cal., is willing to tell just enough about his invention to whet the public appetite, and no more. He calls his apparatus a "telectroscope"—that is to say, a device for seeing a long way by means of electricity.—New York Herald.

THE DESERT WILL BLOOM.

Large Amount of Capital Behind an Iowan's Invention.

Arrangements were recently closed at Sioux City, Ia., for the organization of a company of enormous capital which expects, within the next few months, to secure options on all arid lands in Kansas, Colorado, Nebraska and the Dakotas. A system of soil culture invented by H. W. Campbell of that place will be used in cultivating them, and the land will be retailed to farmers.

By using his system Mr. Campbell says the rainfall will be sufficient to raise enormous crops in the driest districts. Experimental stations have been established, at which good results have been accomplished. Among the stockholders in the company will be included, it is said, the Sault Ste. Marie, Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, Burlington and Missouri River, Fremont, Elkhorn and Missouri Valley and Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe roads. Several land and loan companies and many capitalists are also interested in the enterprise.—Chicago Times-Herald.

FOR PRESIDENT,

WILLIAM J. BRYAN of Nebraska

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT,

ARTHUR SEWALL of Maine

Haverhill has had boodle aldermen, and Lowell bids fair to have boodle councilmen. There is scarcely anything in which either Lawrence or Haverhill can outrival Lowell.

The Mall is talking about beating its neighbors, but it had a real scoop on Monday. It got out the issue for Saturday, August 1, on Monday, August 3. This beats the town as usual.

The question now current about the city is, "will the indicted city officials be found guilty?" Upon this point there are various opinions, some favoring the officials, some the reverse. One thing certain is, that the public believes the horse deal was a crooked transaction, and that the councilmen, whether guilty or not, left themselves extremely open to suspicion, whether well founded or otherwise.

The Sunday Register, which has fought such a hard battle against the A. P. A. is now for sale, as Mrs. O'Mahoney's health will not permit her to run the paper any longer. The Register is a good, live weekly paper, and will undoubtedly find many enterprising newspaper men ready to purchase it.

Bryan's eastern trip will be the grand march, as it were, before the opening of the campaign. He will leave Nebraska next Friday and will deliver rear end speeches at a score of towns. Richard P. Bland will accompany Mr. Bryan on his trip as a special correspondent to the press, so that Mr. Bryan may not be misrepresented by the gold bug subsidized press. Mr. Bryan will make his opening speech of the campaign in New York on Aug. 12, when he will be notified of his nomination at Madison Square Garden.

The labor men of Lowell have been seen by a Sun representative, and have expressed themselves very strongly in favor of silver. President Buckley of the Central Labor union, President Duggan of the Cotton Spinners' International union, L. W. Weeks of the Cigar Makers' union, and President Delehanty of the Cotton Spinners, are all enthusiastic silver men. They understand the question, and they believe that the vast majority of labor men in this city will vote solidly for Bryan and Sewall and for free silver.

Mr. Watson, the populist nominee for vice president, talks unceasingly through his newspaper. Chairman Jones of the democratic national committee seems to have made an egregious blunder at the very threshold of the campaign by reflecting upon the southern populists who cast a million votes. The consequence is, that there is a demand for Senator Gorman to take Jones' place in directing the campaign. Such a blunder might easily result as fatally as that of Buchard in his fulsome praise of Blaine.

Here are words of truth from a high authority:

"Alfred Henry Lewis in the New York Journal: McKinley is of no present or future consequence. Hanna is casting the shadow in this campaign. The candidate is swallowed by the manager. The Canton mute is merely a syndicate's entry for the white house stakes. McKinley may be successful, but he cannot win. The syndicate wins. Hanna wins. McKinley may finish first in the race. But the syndicate which groomed him, which drove him, which put up entrance money and paid stable charges, will pocket the prize. Make the voiceless man of Canton president and he will occupy the white house only as the steward of a ring. He will hold his office as the trustee of a coterie. He will dispense its patronage and perform its functions at the will and word of Hanna and to the sole end that the members of that syndicate which invested its millions in the capture of the place may in honors and money profits gain those rewards for which the whole piracy was planned.

NERNUSCHI ON FREE COINAGE

What the Eminent Economist Says About the United States Acting Alone.

Henri Cernuschi was the famous French writer who won fame as a champion of international bimetallism and an opponent of independent bimetallism by any single nation. He has been frequently quoted by advocates of the gold standard in this country in their endeavor to combat the arguments of the advocates of "16 to 1." Therefore the following, which comprises the closing paragraphs of an article written for the Paris Economiste, is of interest:

The present monetary policy of the United States is consequently very advantageous to the interests of England, a gold monometallic country, but it is utterly ruinous as regards the foreign financial relations of the United States, and especially for its native producers.

This is why, inasmuch as England's attitude prevents the realization of international bimetallism and condemns one half of the world to gold monometallism and the other half to silver monometallism, I would not hesitate, were I a citizen of the United States, to become—I, Cernuschi, the father of international bimetallism, as I am everywhere called—a silver monometallist.

From a theoretical point of view, the free coinage of silver at 16 to 1, re-established by the United States without the concurrence of Europe, would be a vicious solution, but it would nevertheless be a step in the direction of international bimetallism; for, under the regime of the new standard, the productive power of the United States would receive so enormous an impulse, and this development would have such a disastrous effect upon the economic and financial interests of England and the other European nations now governed by the gold standard, that it may be confidently predicted in advance that the course of events would force the adoption of international bimetallism as the only true solution even upon those who today deny the possibility and efficacy of it.

"Call James A. Garfield."

James A. Garfield said, when in the house:

"Every man who is opposed to the use of silver coin as a part of the legal currency of the country I disagree with. Every man who is opposed to the actual legal use of both metals I disagree with. I would endow the two dollars with equality and make the coinage free."

That was the position of Abraham Lincoln and General Grant. That was the position of the Republican party from its first formation down until the St. Louis convention.

GIST OF THE QUESTION.

"Coin" Makes Some Clear Statements on the Leading Topic of the Day.

It is a common statement that free coinage of silver will run gold out of circulation. Bimetallism contemplates that from time to time one or the other of the metals will be hard to get and will go out of circulation. It is the right to use either metal and the fact that the other metal is accessible and may be used that constitute the principal merit of bimetallism. There is a calamity when one metal goes out of circulation if it is the only metal the law has provided for use as primary money. But there is no calamity on one of the metals going out of circulation if the other metal is accessible, the mints open to its free coinage and the people have the option to use it. Gold is now out of circulation. There is no gold among the people. It is cornered in the bank vaults. It is leaving us to go to Europe to pay $250,000,000 annually as interest on our gold debts authorized by the act of 1878. Under the gold standard it is only a question of time when all our gold will leave us. We produce about $40,000,000 a year of gold and are sending $250,000,000 a year to Europe as interest on debts of ours held by foreigners. The gold being shipped back to us is borrowed gold that is increasing our gold debt to Europe and intensifying the situation. It means that in the future more gold must be annually shipped to Europe to pay our increasing gold interest. It means that we have committed ourselves to an erroneous financial system, and that the longer it lasts the greater our suffering must be in the end.

The gist of the financial question is in this: Men who deal in money are interested in making the property they deal in more and more valuable. This is a natural instinct in dealers in any property. A cattle man in Kansas who owns 10,000 head of cattle knows that he could make his 10,000 head of cattle worth considerably more to him if he could cause the sudden death of half the other cattle in the world.

The money dealer understands this principle, and knowing that money is made by law he has gone to where the law is made and caused the destruction of one-half the money of the world. He is a dealer in money. It is the property that he studies. When he makes his money so valuable that it will buy more and more of your property and mine, he is the gainer. When the farmer's wheat exchanges for less and less money, the farmer grows relatively poorer than the man who owns the money. The unfortunate circumstance that adds additional gravity to the situation is that the money dealer deals in a property upon which all civilization is depending. It is the blood of civilization in which he deals, and when he absorbs it he strangles civilization. When he depletes the arteries of commerce by hoarding about him this blood of civilization—society, arts, commerce—civilization itself is affected.

Free coinage of silver will relieve the strain on gold and break the grip of the money lender, whose fingers are now mercilessly tightening around the throat of this government. All is at stake in this struggle—our families, society and the republic itself.—W. H. Harvey in New York Journal.

SUMMED UP.

What the Present Agitation Means Tersely Set Forth In Paragraphs.

The idea that the overproduction of commodities is the cause of all trouble is refuted by the fact they are harder for the poor to get at their present prices than they would be at higher prices with full circulation, because it is harder now to get the half dollar than it used to be to get a dollar to buy them with.

If machinery has increased the product of commodities, it would also have increased the product of money of redemption if silver had not been demonetized. The relation between the two would have been approximately sustained. Stoppage of coinage without the stoppage of the production of commodities has limited the supply of money and increased the quantity of commodities. The cheapness of the commodities is but another expression for the dearness of money.

This question is one between labor and capital, and with the appreciation of money the laborer must always get less.

It is a question also between America and Europe. Europe, being a creditor country and America a debtor country, with dearer money Europe must get richer and America poorer.

It is a question between the masses of the people and a few magnates of wealth, and with dearer money the people must get poorer and the magnates richer.

It is a question between the taxpayer and government, and with dearer money the taxpayer must be more heavily burdened.

It is a question between debtor and creditor, and with dearer money the debtor must go to the wall.

It is a question between property and the charges upon it, and with dearer money property must be sacrificed and in many cases the creditor involved in ruin with his insolvent debtor.

It is a question between democracy and autocracy, and with dearer money the autocrats of the world have filled their strong boxes with American gold, dipped out of the treasury with greenbacks, and every monarch of the old world has been strengthened, while free, liberal and independent movements have been proportionately checked.

It is a question of America and her freemen on the one side and her rivals and enemies on the other side.—Senator John W. Daniel.

OH! WHAT A RELIEF.

"I suffered with terrible pains in my left ovary and womb. My back ached all the time.

"I had kidney trouble badly. Doctors prescribed for me, and I followed their advice, but found no relief until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Oh! what a relief it is, not to have that tired feeling day after day, in the morning as much as at night after a hard day's work, and to be free from all pains caused by Ovarian and Womb troubles. I cannot express my gratitude. I hope and pray that other suffering women will realize the truth and importance of my statement, and accept the relief that is sure to attend the use of the Pinkham Medicine."—MRS. He Came to Time.

Last week during court in Summerville a murder case came up for trial. The defendant claimed his rights under the law, and a full panel of 48 men was summoned from which to get a jury. Slowly and one by one the solicitor put the usual questions as to their competency to try the case at issue. Finally a long, lank juror stood up in answer to his name and answered the questions all right until he stumbled upon this one:

"Are you conscientiously opposed to capital punishment?"

The juror didn't understand, and the question was repeated. Finally, after much hesitation, he seemed to grasp the idea and replied:

"Oh, I believe in hanging 'em when they need it!"

The court and the spectators smiled, while the defense sang out, "Object!"—Atlanta Constitution.

FURTHER GAINS

In the Great Alabama Democratic Majority.

DEMOCRATS WANT ELECTORS OGLY—GOLD MEN BOUNCED.

Maine Democrats Strongly For Bryan.

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 5.—Late returns from Monday's election in this state confirm the report of a complete Democratic victory, with surprisingly large gains. The count in the big counties has been slow, especially in the cities, but official and estimated returns, the latter based on reports received from a majority of the boxes in the counties reporting show that Johnston and the Democrats have certainly carried 45 out of 66 counties. Goodwyn (Pop.) has 15 counties. Six have not been heard from, or are too close to be figured upon. Of the last named, Johnston probably has four and Goodwyn two. It is believed that the complete returns will show a majority of not less than 45,000 for Johnston, and possibly 50,000. As compared to the election of 1894, the Democrats have carried certainly 15 counties that gave a Populist majority two years ago. As to the legislature, the Democrats have gained, it is figured, 14 members of the house, giving them 78 out of 100. They have elected 11 out of 17 senators, which, with 13 hold-over members, gives them 24 out of 33 members of that body. The sentiment of the legislature is silver, which probably means Pugh's re-election to the United States senate.

Democrats Want Electors Only.

Hutchinson, Kan., Aug. 5. — At the state Democratic convention yesterday, the committee on platform and order of business reported without delay. The platform reported unequivocally endorses the Chicago platform, reasserts the demand of the Kansas Democracy for the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1; lauds Bryan and Sewall as the true champions of the people's interests, and in conclusion demands a resubmission of the prohibition question to the people of the state.

But it was in the report of the committee on rules and order of business that all interest centered. To this committee had been delegated, by common consent, the work of planning a means of effecting a fusion with the Populists. This committee reported that the convention should select its presidential electors, though not formally nominating them, and that a special committee of five should be named to wait on the Populists at Abilene and effect a fusion of the two parties in Kansas. In a word the report recommended that the Democrats agree to surrender everything but the electors to the Populists, and to endorse unequivocally the state ticket nominated by the Populists, including a congressman-at-large, in return for an endorsement by the Populists of the Bryan and Sewall electors.

The convention practically adopted the plan by acclamation. There was a few delegates who wanted a Democrat representation on the state ticket, but these were lost sight of, being a very small minority.

Judge Johnson, Democratic national committeeman for Kansas, was selected to head the delegation of ambassadors to the Populists at Abilene.

Immediately after this committee had been named, the convention adjourned until 4 o'clock this afternoon, to await their report. The committee left last night for Abilene. In an interview, Chairman Johnson stated that he had no doubt but a satisfactory arrangement for fusion could be arrived at.

Gold Men Bounced.

Minneapolis, Aug. 5.—The state Democratic convention was held here yesterday. The 600 delegates present were harmonious, so far as the fusion plan with the Populists was concerned, but in the deliverance of their charge things ran less smoothly. This was when the report of the committee on credentials was presented for adoption. It was understood that there were no contests, but a supplementary report was presented, challenging the right of three distinguished members of the Ramsey county delegation to occupy seats on the floor. These were Daniel W. Lawler, national committeeman for Minnesota; Judge McCafferty and Frank W. M. Cutcheon of St. Paul. All are pronounced gold men, who have repudiated the Chicago platform. The silver men were determined to oust them, and they did. A scene of wild disorder ensued, and a small sized riot waged for an hour. Mr. Cutcheon had been invited to express his views, but when he began to speak the crowd would not listen to him. All attempts to preserve order proved futile, and Cutcheon left the platform with the remark: "All right, gentlemen, we will meet you at Philippi."

The three men filed out of the hall, amid the derisive shouts of hundreds of angry men. The fusion plan was adopted.

The Democrats named John Lind for governor, Julius J. Heinrichs for secretary of state, and Alexander McKennon for state treasurer, leaving the lieutenant governorship and the attorney general to be filled in by the Populists. They also named four presidential electors. The Populists will name the remaining electors.

A feature of the convention was a speech by Ignatius Donnelly, pledging harmony and a magnificant victory for all silverites in November.

Maine Men For Bryan.

Alfred, Me., Aug. 5.—The Democratic district convention was held here yesterday. Joseph A. McGowan presided. Chairman McGowan made a stirring speech, in which he denounced the bolters. M. P. Frank of Portland, the free silver advocate, who is to be a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination at Waterville, was made chairman of the committee on resolutions. The committee was evenly divided, 3 to 3, on the question of currency, and offered two platforms, one pledging support to Bryan and Sewall and the other making no reference to the national ticket or platform.

Just before the committee on resolutions reported, Tristram Goldthwaite of Biddeford, in a brief speech, nominated ex-Mayor Edward W. Staples of Biddeford as a candidate for representative to congress. He declared that Mr. Staples was never beaten in a political contest, and predicted victory for him in the September election. The nomination was seconded by William H. Clifford of Portland. Mr. Staples became the nominee of the convention without a dissenting voice.

Up to this time there has not been so much as a breeze of excitement, but when M. P. Frank of Portland addressed the assemblage, a storm set in which shortly afterward took on the velocity of a cyclone. Mr. Frank proceeded to read this resolution, which, he explained, was reported by three members of the committee on resolutions:

"Resolved, That the Democratic delegates of the First district, in convention assembled, reaffirm their adherence to the time-honored principles of the Democratic party, as enunciated by its great founder, Thomas Jefferson, and maintained by the firmness of Jackson, and especially that cardinal principle of Democracy, absolute acquiescence to the will of the majority, and they pledge their loyal support to the candidates nominated at the national convention at Chicago, and will use every honest effort to secure their election, as well as the election of the nominee of this convention."

Mr. Frank was immediately followed by Lamont A. Stevens of Wells, who offered a substitute resolution, which also bore the signatures of three members of the committee.

His resolution was, in effect, simply an endorsement of the gold platform adopted at the state convention, June 17.

Several valiant warriors were suddenly upon their feet. A long oratorical battle followed, and finally loud calls for the "question" brought the matter to a vote.

The original resolution, offered by Mr. Frank, pledging loyal support to the nominees of the Chicago convention, was adopted by a vote of 65 to 25, and a deafening shout went up from the free silver element.

At the mass meeting in the courthouse yard late in the afternoon, free silver speeches were made by E. C. Plummer and John Scott of Bath.

Discussing a Plan of Campaign.

Montpelier, Vt., Aug. 5.—Nine gold Democrats from different sections of the state met at the Pavilion yesterday to discuss the situation and lay out a plan of campaign. The meeting organized with P M. Meldon chairman, and W. H. Creamer secretary. After a discussion of the position of J. H. Jackson of Barre, nominee for governor, it was decided to wait on him and ascertain his position. Dr. Jackson declared he stood on the platform of the state convention, and that while not entirely agreeing with the Chicago platform, he was not a bolter. It was decided to support Dr. Jackson's candidacy. It was decided to send a representative to the sound money national convention, to be held at Indianapolis, and W. H. Creamer was chosen. A sound money state committee was appointed to receive the report of the delegate to the Indianapolis convention and call a state convention if that conference so advises.

New Silver League.

Boston, Aug. 5.—A Massachusetts non-partisan Silver league was formed here last night, with Norman Cameron as president, John Vaugher, vice president; L. M. Barralle, secretary, and A. Barralle, treasurer. All the officers live in Boston. Letters were received from the American Silver league in Washington, tendering support and offering literature, and from Senator Teller of Colorado. Communications were also received from branch organizations, which have been formed in other parts of the state. It was voted to admit women to all the privileges of the league, except in the matter of voting. The league's support was pledged to Bryan, but the members when interviewed were non-committal on the question of candidate for the vice presidency.

Eminent Educator Gone.

Sharon, Mass., Aug. 5.—Professor Daniel B. Hagar, A. M., Ph D., one of the best known educators in the state, died of heart failure at Massapoag Lake hotel yesterday afternoon. For 31 years he had been the head of the Salem normal school. He had been an educator since 1843. He was born at Newton Lower Falls in 1820. He was the author of many mathematical text books. He was married in Schenectady, N. Y., and had seven children, of whom five survive him.

Sympathetic Strike Unlikely.

Cleveland, Aug. 5.—It is not likely that a sympathetic strike will be ordered here. Eight of the leaders of the Central Labor union, all representing different trades, were interviewed yesterday, and all but two of them expressed themselves as opposed to such a strike, declaring that it would be unwise, and could not benefit the Brown strikers. The question will probably be decided at the meeting of the Central Labor union tonight.

Fire Laddies Meet.

Willimantic, Conn., Aug. 5.—The State Firemen's association opened its 13th annual convention here yesterday. Upwards of 200 visiting firemen are in attendance, including representatives of nearly every steamer, hose and hook and ladder company in the state. Main street business blocks are gay with bunting, and the various engine houses are lavishly trimmed.

Crops and Glass Suffered.

Bradford, Vt., Aug. 5.—A severe hail and wind storm passed over this village yesterday afternoon. The ground in the path of the storm was whitened by hailstones, which broke window glass and beat down smaller crops. The storm was 1½ miles in width, and was accompanied by a strong wind, which stripped fruit and shade trees of limbs and foliage.

Rebels Weakening.

London, Aug. 5. — A Buluwayo dispatch to The Chronicle, touching upon several recent skirmishes with the Matabeles, with only trifling losses to the English side, says: Our recent blows on the rebels are evidently telling.

Evidence of Double Crime.

La Plata, Md., Aug. 5.—George Matthews, an oyster man, is held here, charged with the murder of James J. Irwin. Evidence shows that Matthews has been on intimate terms with Mrs Irwin, and that the murdered man was cognizant of the fact. Matthews denies all knowledge of the crime.

AN IDEA OF HOW INSANE PEOPLE ACT.

Horses, Cats and Dogs that Have Lost Their Wits—The Way Anchovies Are Caught—How to Make a Baked Rhubarb Pudding.

Insanity in the human subject, it is supposed by some, has no analogue in the lower animals. Yet many causes will lead to the permanent loss of all self control. Cattle driven from the country through the crowded thoroughfares of a town will, under the influence of this sudden change of condition, work themselves into a state of excitement and fury which must at least be closely allied to madness. Horses have been known to go mad in the midst of the bewildering scenes of a battlefield. At Balaklava an Arabian horse turned upon its attendant, who happened to be drawing water, seized him in its mouth, threw him to the ground and then kneeling on him attacked him like an infuriated dog. Before the terror could be subdued it had bitten off another soldier's finger and seriously wounded the army "vet."

Another instance is related of a docile horse which one hot summer suddenly went mad. Everything that came within its reach it seized in its teeth and shook like a terrier would a rat. It raided the pigsties and threw the inmates one after the other into the air, trampling on the bodies as they fell. Afterward it almost killed its own master after maiming for life the farrier who was called in. This, at least, must have been a case of insanity. The cause of such insanity is often to be found in congenital malformation of the bones of the head. A scientist of authority even goes so far as to prove by what appears to be incontestible evidence that animals—cats, dogs and monkeys—have been observed to have delusions very similar to those of insane people.

How Anchovies Are Caught.

The anchovy is a small fish about three inches long belonging to the herring family. It comes into the Mediterranean from the Atlantic in vast shoals for spawning, and is caught mostly in the months of May, June and July. It is taken at nighttime, when the small boats engaged in the fishery put out in numbers from the Italian shores, furnished at the stern with lights. The fish are attracted by these lights in immense numbers, and are literally ladled out of the water, for by no courtesy can the operation be called fishing. The best ground is at Gorgona, a small island off Leghorn. This fish was in former times tolerably common off the English coast.

How the House Bound May Get Air.

Elderly people and others who may be temporarily house bound and prevented from enjoying a regular daily stroll outdoors can devise a fair substitute as follows: Bundle up as if for the usual constitutional, select a large sunny room, preferably at the top of the house, open wide the windows, shut off the heat and move around briskly, going to the window and inhaling the fresh air deeply through the nostrils. We have often called attention to the fact that house air, with its many impurities, overheated condition and general lifelessness, is one of the principal predisposing causes to colds and catarrhal affections.

Where a patient or invalid is confined to bed, if the shoulders are kept well covered and the head lightly protected, the windows may be opened and the room flushed with fresh air without any special risk, provided the current does not strike them too directly. The danger from want of proper ventilation is decidedly greater. Deep inhalations of air at the open window, taken gently through the nose, impart an enlivening and tonic influence to the whole nervous system, which can soon be demonstrated by a personal experiment.

How to Make a Baked Rhubarb Pudding.

Five sticks of rhubarb, one-quarter pound of pounded sugar, one-quarter pound of butter, some stale bread. Line a pie dish with slices of bread and butter, cover with cut up rhubarb strewed with sugar and thin slices of bread and butter, and so on alternately until the dish is full, having the rhubarb and sugar on the top; cover with a plate and bake one-half hour. Serve hot.

How to Make Watermelon and Peach Ices.

Watermelon Ice.—Select very ripe and a very red watermelon. Save all the water and scrape all the red pulp fine. Allow a pound of sugar to a gallon of this liquid and freeze. When the ice is half frozen, add the well beaten whites of 3 eggs and stir the mass frequently from the bottom with a wooden spatula. The flavor of this ice naturally depends largely upon the quality of the melon.

Peach Ice.—Select a dozen nice ripe peaches, 2 lemons and 3 pints of clarified sugar. Pare the peaches and press the pulp through a sieve; then add the clarified sugar and lemon juice and freeze. When nicely frozen, mix thoroughly with the ice a meringue made of the whites of 2 eggs and 4 tablespoons of sugar. Set away for an hour before serving.

How to Cure Headache.

The latest "cure" for the relief of a headache is a hair cut. A London physician has met with great success in this treatment. It is not necessary that the hair should be cropped off short.

The curative property of the treatment is based on the fact that the tube which is contained in each single hair is severed in the process and the brain "bleeds," as the barbers say, thereby opening a safety valve for the congested cranium.

Try the cure when next attacked by headache, and if the result be not satisfactory, rest assured that it is not the fault of the prescription, but that the head is so wooden that it "wooden't act."

How to Make Baked Plum Pudding.

Eight crackers rolled fine, 4 eggs well beaten, a quart of milk, three-fourths cup of sugar, 2 tablespoonfuls butter, one-fourth teaspoonful salt, one-fourth nutmeg, one-half teaspoonful cinnamon, a pound raisins, seeded. Mix all but eggs, then add them, beaten very light. Bake in a moderate oven about an hour and a half.

CONFESSION OF A PIE EATER.

How He Became a Slave and Some Pies He Has Met.

In looking over my past career I feel it to be but proper that I admit that I have always been a slave of the so called pernicious pie habit. I cannot remember how long ago I ate my first piece of pie, nor can I state with any degree of accuracy the date upon which I surrendered my manhood or rather childhood and willingly thrust my neck into the yoke which still encircles it. But I will admit that the taste is not an acquired one with me, as I enjoyed my first piece of pie quite as keenly as I did the last wedge, which is still gyrating madly within me undigested and measuring itself, so to speak, against my gastric meter.

When I was a small boy, I could never quite understand why the pie, which was the best part of the dinner, should always come on last when every one's appetite was satisfied. It seemed to me that the pie should come first. Then it often struck me that if the pie were to lead the meal all interest would cease with the last mouthful, whereas if entered as the epilogue of the prandial drama the other parts, from the very ring of the bell, would bristle with the barbed wire or epicurean interest.

Again, I often marveled in vain at the idea of having a fish dinner and not a pie dinner. It seemed to me a paradox that defied explanation. I never knew and do not know until this day which kind of pie is my favorite because I like each and every kind, with or without cheese, although eaten with a fork, a spoon or au naturel out of the hand. Some philosopher has called the uncovered or decollete pie—that is, the one which is exposed to the light and the critical naked eye—the open faced pie. This, of course, refers to those specimens which represent the custard, the cocoanut and the pumpkin, which do not wear vests or chest protectors of crust.

The pie that has an upper crust should be called a hunting case pie, while the cranberry, having strips of crust running over its roof in a regular latticework of suspenders, should be regarded as a striped pie for the English and a plaid pie for the Scotch. I cannot help recalling an idea that occurred to me when I was a little boy about eight or ten hands high. It was a curious idea relating to the suspenders of the cranberry pie in this interrogatory form: Are the suspenders to keep the cranberries in the pie, and if so are they buttoned to the under edge of the plate, like an all wool theatrical ocean, or are they fastened down with glue?

The Washington pie I liked from a purely patriotic impulse, although the slices of apple were imbedded in the foundation of dough after the manner of cobblestones, until they seemed, from the regularity of their upturned edges, like the bay of Naples as it appears, wind dimpled, in a coffee chromo.

Hitting the pie and hitting the pipe are both habits which hold one with an iron grip. Since the day I fell I have been a willing vassal of the insidious destroyer and have made a study of pie and pie poisoning in all its ramifications.

The great, thick country pie, whether round or oblong, is the ideal pie of the heart, and when the poet's fingers are folded over the arc of a circle he acknowledges with outspread wings that even if lost in the great Sahara desert he would sigh, not so much for the crystal spring as for the great American "dessert," and if suddenly possessed of some of the latter would acknowledge himself a vassal melting in the vaseline of ineffable ecstasy. Take one of these small urban pies which are molded and turned out by the thousand like cheap watches, and the chances are that you will not want to take another seriously if at all. The only advantage this small pie has is that it may be held in the hand like a quoit, that it doesn't ooze, drip or disintegrate, and that it is in a certain sense antiseptic. In one of these stem winding pies death lurks even when its true character is hidden from the mind's eye by the cunning artificer beneath whose touch the meringue conceit quickens and blossoms in infinite beauty.

Give me the old, honest, homely, farmhouse pie, with no other ornamentation than a few rude and unstudied fork jabs in its ecru breast to prevent its losing its wind. And give me plenty of it and also supply me with plenty of elbow room and a large, imperial, nickel plated tin appetite, that I may do the dish justice and show my appreciation with the ardor of a patriot, because pie is an American institution upon which the American eagle stands in heartfelt pride as if to maintain the traditions of independence and to hurl contumely into the false face of the invader. But the city pie is not inspiring in a strict sense. It is, so to speak, alien and exotic, especially when eaten against time at the noonday hour, for then the eater stands upon his feet and eats in so great a hurry that to all outward appearances his entire physical system is brought into play, the masseter and deltoid muscles are strained to their utmost tension, the eyes are dilated and the hat bobs in frantic glee, while the pie eater snaps off a mouthful and seems to leap in the air as if to climb it.

Such a slave can mix his pie—that is, eat various kinds—until his stomach becomes a kaleidoscope of pie. The pumpkin, breathing of the cornfield; the cocoanut, full of tropical suggestion, and the mince, which is out of date during the dog days because it bays the moon, are one to him. He has an ostrich stomach for pie. He is a pirate for pie, and he eats pie for breakfast to begin the day right, then he eats it for dinner to preserve a high average of enamored thought, and finally for supper from motives of gratitude for his daily pie. He has pie heart, and goes right on eating his favorite dainty although he destroys his complexion, and he would keep on even if the practice should render his digestive organs effete, which would, of course, be impossible.

The rose may perish on the summer stem and our idols be snatched from us in the tenderest beauty of their bloom. Dynasties may fade from the earth and the columns of the early ages crumble in slow decay; but the pie is infinite and eternal. It defies alike the hand and the teeth of time, for so long as time has a hand in which to hold it and teeth with which to eat it it will exist in all its pristine glory and fill the heart of man with the living melody of its antique song.—R. K. Munkittrick in New York Sunday World.

COMMUNICATION.

Why these hard times? Why do the present hard times exist? is a question certainly every gold man should ask himself. In 1892 the democratic platform was for hard money or in other words in favor of the gold standard. Pres. Cleveland was overwhelmingly elected upon it. What has been the result? According to the gold men everything should have been booming. Has it been? If it has not been, what probability is there that it would be, in the next four years supposing McKinley should be elected and a gold congress with him? Why not judge the future by the past in this matter. We do so in all other matters. Is it not true that times have continued to grow worse and worse? Is it not more than probable they will continue to go from bad to worse unless a change is made. We have given the gold standard a long and fair trial and the result is before us. Is it any wonder the Kansas farmers have had all they want of gold times? When they have to sell their eggs for five cents a dozen, their butter for from 6 to 8 cents a pound, their pork for two and one-half cents a pound, their oats for seven cents a bushel, their corn for from seven to nine cents and their wheat for 35 cents a bushel. These Kansas farmers are our customers, they are the consumers of Lowell manufactures? Can there be any prosperity under such conditions? Is there any prospect of a change for the better? That there is none all must admit. Can a change make things worse? It certainly does not seem so. Let the workingmen of Lowell consider these things carefully, for it is of vital importance to them. Why won't just this state of affairs continue (only worse) if McKinley is elected and the gold standard continues. What is the remedy? Very simple, indeed. Vote for a change, vote for Bryan and free silver. There is not the slightest danger in doing so, for times can't be worse than they are now. Any change is preferable to the present conditions.

GARRETT'S WILL

Makes His Wife Legatee to Millions.

Belief, However, That Some Will Be Remembered.

Baltimore, Aug. 5.—Two wills made by the late Robert Garrett were given to the press last night. They were filed for probate at Towson today. The first will was drawn in Baltimore in 1883, and substantially names his wife as sole devisee and legatee. The second instrument was executed in London, July 5, 1888, a short while after the tragic death of his brother, T. Harrison Garrett.

In the last document, $100,000 is bequeathed to each of the three children of his brother; $200,000 to William F. Frick, his father-in-law; $30,000 to Charles Nitze, his home d'affaires, and $20,000 to A. B. Crain, Mr. Garrett's private secretary. All the rest and residue of the estate is given to his wife, Mary Frick Garrett, absolutely, who, together with her father, William F. Frick, are named executors.

It is thought by some intimate friends of the family that the reason for probating both wills is the fact that the last one was executed just at the commencement of Mr. Garrett's long continued sickness, and in view of this fact, it was deemed advisable to prove both instruments.

As the widow is the residuary devisee and legatee under both wills, from the fact of proving both, it seems to be evident that she intends to adopt the last one, although in derogation of her rights, under the will of 1883, as it makes the specific bequests to his brother's children and others. The executors have given a full power of attorney to Charles Nitze to act for them in all matters relating to the business of Robert Garrett & Sons, of which the deceased was the sole surviving partner.

Some surprise was expressed that Mr. Garrett, in view of the fact that he was known to be a promoter of many charities, did not provide for them in either will. This is explained, however, in the clause in which he states that his wife was well acquainted with his plans in this direction, and he was satisfied that she would cary out his views.

Will Be No Panic.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—There will be no panic here as a result of the failure of the Moore Bros. Both the Diamond Match and New York Biscuit companies are asserted to be in good condition, and are expected to recover from the failure. Menaced raids have been warded off by the closing of the Chicago Stock Exchange, which will remain closed indefinitely. As the match and biscuit stocks have been almost the only stocks dealt in, it is not believed that the closing of the Exchange will interfere with general financial affairs. Financiers say that there is no danger of panic, nor is there any likelihood of any serious results.

Peary's Steamer Hung Up.

Gloucester, Mass., Aug. 5.—Professor R. S. Tarr, who started with Lieutenant Peary on an Arctic geological expedition in the steamer Hope, has written to his family in this city that the steamer is hung up in the floe off the Greenland coast. The letter was evidently hurriedly written, and does not give all the details to make a connected story. The last previously heard from the Hope she was spoken off the Labrador coast, and was reported all well. Professor Tarr's letter does not speak as if the vessel was in any immediate danger.

Taking It Easy.

Saratoga, Aug. 5.—Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., are among the numerous grooms and brides who are passing their honeymoon here. They passed yesterday quietly. The congratulations of a host of friends, the receipt of numerous felicitous telegrams, a pleasant drive to the Geysers, Woodlawn park and Saratoga lake, a brief shopping expedition, and an evening concert on the United States hotel piazza, rounded out the day for them.

Murder on a Portland Brig.

Portland, Me., Aug. 5.—Word has just been received here from Captain Wallace, of the Portland brig Henry B. Cleaves, stating that while lying in the port of San Juan, Porto Rico, the mate struck the cook over the head with a belaying pin, knocking him down a hatchway and killing him instantly. The mate and crew were arrested by the American consul, and are now on their way to Baltimore, where the mate will be tried for murder.

Trocha In Danger.

Habana, Aug. 5.—There are indications that an attack is imminent upon the trocha. Bandera is encamped near Mangas, in Pinar del Rio, and Lacret is maintaining a watch upon the trocha near Canas, prepared to second Bandera's attack. From Artemisa, answering signals of red lights are seen at night in insurgent camps.

Rhodes May Wriggle Out of It.

London, Aug. 5.—The Daily Mail states that the government has taken no steps to prosecute Cecil Rhodes for his complicity in the Jameson raid into the Transvaal, and that law officers of the crown are ridiculing the prosecution under the foreign enlistment act. The Daily Mail believes that Rhodes has determined to have the verdict of an English jury, and that otherwise he will feel himself entitled to refuse to give evidence before the select committee of parliament, to investigate the administration of Rhodes and the circumstances of the Jameson raid.

Yankee Enterprise In Korea.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 5.—A dispatch from Vladivostock announces that Korea has conceded to a syndicate of Americans the right to construct a railroad from Seoul, the capital, to Chemulpo, the main port and harbor. The Americans, in addition, have the right to work the minerals along the line of this road. Other concessions have been granted to France and Russia. Seoul is now quiet.

INTERESTING TESTIMONY.

At the Inquest Into the Cause of the New Jersey Railway Disaster.

Atlantic City, Aug. 5.—There were several new developments at yesterday's session of Coroner McLaughlin's inquest into Thursday night's disaster, by which 44 persons were killed and as many more injured. All the men most nearly concerned in the accident gave testimony, including Night Towerman Hauser, Fireman Hallahan and Conductor Pinkerton of the Reading express, and Engineer Greiner and Fireman Newell of the excursion train. Arthur Stiles, a resident of Atlantic City, who was riding on his wheel along the turnpike road and saw the collision, also testified.

Nearly all these witnesses agreed that Engineer Edwin Farr of the Reading train, who was found dead with his hand on the throttle, had done everything in his power to stop his train when he saw that a collision was imminent, and every one of them, except Greiner, stated or inferred that the West Jersey train could either have been stopped after Engineer Greiner saw the Reading thundering along toward him, or handled so that only the two engines would have come together. This would have meant death to the men in the two cabs, very likely, but it would have saved the passenger coaches.

Conductor Pinkerton of the Reading train said this in so many words. He also gave the impression that the signal could not have been properly worked. According to his interpretation of Engineer Farr's whistle, a certain signal had been given the Reading train, and then suddenly changed to another. The first must have been the right of way signal and the second the danger. Farr whistled to know which was right, but it was too late to stop the train.

Engineer Greiner declared that he was guided only by signals, regardless of the approach of other trains. He got the signal of right of way, and he continued on, but he had known of instances when the signals had been changed quickly. The present indications are that the inquest will consume several more days.

Li Hung Chang's Movements.

London, Aug. 5. — Li Hung Chang, dressed in a yellow robe, and accompanied by a number of attendants, was present in the house of commons yesterday. He was escorted to a seat beneath the gallery, and listened to the debate on the Scotch agricultural rates bill. Secretary Curzon explained the leading features of the house to the distinguished traveler, who appeared to be much interested. In the afternoon, Li Hung Chang had an audience with the Marquis of Salisbury. Li was borne into the audience room on a chair, in order to avoid the fatigue of mounting the stairs. He wore a yellow jacket, the peacock feather and a claret-colored skirt.

Charges Were Groundless.

Washington, Aug. 5.—The navy department, after careful examination, has found to be regular in every respect, the record of the court martial which investigated the charges made against Lieutenant Commander Colwell of the ram Katahdin by a disgruntled machinist, and the record of honorable acquittal stands without change. The charges were to the effect that the officer treated the men harshly and with needless severity, but the court found that there was absolutely no warrant for the charges.

Even the Governor Not Safe.

Athens, Aug. 5.—Hassa Pasha has been reinstated as governor of Heraklion, in the Island of Crete, as being the only man able to cope with the situation. On his refusing to admit to the town a mob of Mussulmans, who were bringing in the bodies of two Mussulmans shot by insurgents, he was torn from his horse and severely maltreated. The situation is critical, and thousands of armed Mussulmans are thronging to Heraklion unchecked. The Christian residents are in a state of panic, and Turkish troops have been sent from Canea to restore order. Serious fighting is reported from Macedonia. Two hundred insurgents inflicted severe losses on 300 Turkish troops at Sarantapore's pass, near Elassona. Two bodies of insurgents at Katranitsa, after two days' hot siege by 1200 Turks, cut their way through toward Sorovitsovo.

Boomers Not Discouraged.

Mena, Ark., Aug. 5.—Two thousand campers, who came here to witness the advent into Mena of the Kansas City, Pittsburg and Gulf railway, and to take up homesteads, were given a setback Monday night, their tents and outfits having been wrecked and scattered by a severe rainstorm. Many men have brought large families with them to take up claims in the new town, and yesterday men, women and children spent the time hunting for their belongings, which had been blown in every direction. Despite the setback, the boomers made considerable progress, and homesteading is going on at a rapid rate. Schooners are arriving hourly from every direction. The storm has effectually broken a two months' drought.

Next Meeting at Boston.

Worcester, Mass., Aug. 5.—The convention of the state branch of the Federation of Labor concluded its session yesterday. The day was devoted principally to adopting a series of resolutions and in listening to the reports of the various officers and committees. The convention voted to hold its next meeting in Boston. The officers elected for the coming year were: President, J. D. Pierce; first vice president, H. Grady, Springfield; second vice president, D. D. Sheehan, Boston; secretary, George H. Lord, Brockton; treasurer, Charles Spencer, Springfield.

JONES EXPLAINS

FAULKNER SEES CLASS ISSUES IN METHODS

Of Warfare Pursued by the Republicans.

Washington, Aug. 5.—Chairman Jones of the Democratic national committee, yesterday corrected certain misapprehensions which have arisen from published interviews with him within the last day or two. "I did not say that Mr. Bryan would not accept the Populist nomination," said Mr. Jones, "for I have no authority to say that. I did not say that as a general rule the southern Populists were not a creditable class. On the contrary, I said that most of them were patriotic men, who were working for a cause; that they were Populists because they had believed they could promote their cause best through a new party; and that now they would support Bryan because it was shown that their patriotic objects could be attained only through his election. This is what I said of the southern Populists as a rule. As an exception, I spoke of the class who were not creditable. I said there were some who were Populists merely for their personal advancement; some who had become Populists through selfish, and not patriotic motives. I spoke of these as the exceptional class, who would not support Mr. Bryan. I said that as a rule the Populists in the south would follow the patriotic course, and support Bryan; that there were some, who for selfish motives, would not do so, but would prefer to have McKinley elected."

The Democratic congressional headquarters have become a rendezvous for Democratic leaders until the national headquarters are established. Chairman Jones was at work there early on his mail. Later, Chairman Faulkner of the congressional committee was joined by Senator Gorman, Senator Stewart, ex-Governor Black, president of the association of Democratic clubs, Chairman Chilton of the West Virginia state committee, and Representative Capehart of West Virginia. The talk was on general politics, although Senators Gorman and Faulkner went into secret session on certain branches of campaign work. Mr. Faulkner and his associates expressed much satisfaction with the results in Alabama and at Brunswick, Md., yesterday, where the Democrats carried the town, they assert, on the silver question. In speaking of the general status of the situation, Chairman Faulkner said: "I am beginning to fear that our opponents will force the issue away from one of economic questions and make it an issue between corporations and wealth, on one hand, and the poor people on the other—in short, a class issue. The danger is ahead, and when a class issue comes no one can tell where it will lead. We have not sought such an issue. We have been willing to discuss an economic question, but our opponents will not discuss the silver question further than to ridicule it and assail its exponents, and now by the organization of their committees they have made their contest one essentially representative of wealth and corporate influence. I say I regret to see that the opposition is surely forcing this dangerous class issue to the front."

At the Republican congressional headquarters 500,000 pieces of literature have been sent out within the last 24 hours. Of these, 250,000 are small "Pasters," giving McKinley's view on money.

The committee continues to be deluged with requests for literature. One of Acting Chairman Apsley's letters from Indiana said: "The silver craze is dying out, and we must go at 'em with tariff literature."

Workmen are busy cleaning up Wormley's hotel, which adds to the impression that the old hostelry will become the national Democratic headquarters.

Senator Jones left the city last night for New York, to consult with the leaders, who are making arrangements for the Bryan and Sewall notification meeting. He probably will return here Friday.

Sullivan Made a Poor Showing.

Narragansett Pier, R. I., Aug. 5.—A boxing tournament was held here last night. The principal event was the 10-round contest between Stanton Abbot and John A. Sullivan, once champion of the Pacific coast. They boxed five rounds, and the gong sounded at the end of the fifth round just in time to save Sullivan from a knockout. At the end of the sixth round Sullivan retired with a broken wrist.

Greenwich, Conn., Aug. 5.—Proceedings have been instituted by the heirs of Josephus Palmer, who died here a few weeks ago, to prevent the probating of his will, which left his entire estate of nearly $50,000 to Stephen Hubbard, a nephew, who had taken care of him of late years. Bankers' Clerk Who Committed Forgery Comes to Grief.

Montreal, Aug. 5.—Ludwig H. Grunig of New York was arrested at the Stanley hotel yesterday, by Detective Karch, on a charge of forgery. Grunig was in the employ of Ladenburg, Thalman & Co., bankers, New York city. On June 29 a blank letter of credit disappeared from their office somewhat mysteriously, and shortly afterward Grunig obtained leave of absence, and proceeded to the Adirondacks, where he rusticated at the Algonquin hotel under the name of L. Gainsburg. Monday he came to this city and presented the credit letter to the Union bank of Canada. He had filled it to the extent of $2500, and made a draft on Ladenberg, Thalman & Co. for the same amount, whose endorsement he had forged, payable to Ludwig Grunig. All banks had been notified of the missing letter of credit, and the teller, becoming suspicious, asked the young man to call again. In the meantime the detective was notified, and Grunig was arrested. He broke down, and confessed that his troubles were due to stock speculations. He is a young man of good address.

ALL DRANK WATER

Boulevard Driven Wells Inspected Yesterday.

THEY WERE PRONOUNCED EXCELLENT BY AUTHORITIES.

Contractors Entertain Local and Visiting Guests.

There was water to drink at one's pleasure at the Boulevard plant yesterday afternoon and it was a party of good judges that partook of it liberally, and who were loud in their praises of its clearness, coolness and purity.

The occasion was an inspection of the new driven well plant at the Boulevard, the finest in Lowell, if not in the eastern country, by a party of out-of-town men, the water board and several other invited ones who were the guests of Messrs. B. F. and C. G. Smith, the persevering Boston firm of well drivers, who overcoming every obstacle brought forth from a depth of 40 feet the best water Lowell has ever had.

The Boston people arrived shortly after one o'clock and were driven to the city hall, where the entire party took carriages for the driven well plant at the Boulevard. In the party were Messrs. C. G. and B. F. Smith of the driven well firm, Major W. D. Fiske and J. B. Lampman of the Knowles Pump Mfg. Co. of Boston, George E. Pickering of the Walworth Mfg. Co. of South Boston, F. H. Brown of the Davis and Farnham Foundry of Waltham, Peter French of the National Tube Works, Boston; D. W. Tenney, Water Commissioner of Methuen, Miles Brennan, formerly of Lowell water board, Messrs. George E. Putnam, Stephen Jones, F. L. Weaver, Charles E. Howe and August Fels of the Lowell water board, Supt. Thomas of the water works, City Engineer Bowers, Asst. Engineer Sullivan, City Solicitor Qua, and newspaper representatives.

The driven well plant was inspected and its workings explained. Messrs. Smith came here under the impression that there was no water to be had at that point but they started testing in July 1895 and have at last met with great success after most trying of difficulties.

On a line 1800 feet long at the upper end of the boulevard they have sunk 168 2 1-2 inch wells at an average depth of 40 feet. Each well if worked individually will yield 60 gallons of water a minute. The contract calls for a yield of between 2 and 3 million gallons per day. They were allowed $1500 to test in the locality, the money to be received in case they were unsuccessful. If they decided to sink, they were obliged to give that yield daily at $13,000, a million gallons for the capacity. Besides this, they own the wells for one year from the time they begin active work and get $10 per million gallons for their work. This includes every expense caused by the operation of the plant. At the end of one year, April 17, 1897, the city can purchase the plant from the Messrs. Smith at 75 per cent. of its cost.

The wells are now yielding five million gallons per day, of the purest water to be obtained hereabouts.

City Engineer Bowers believes that the water drains from the sand hills on the opposite side of the river and perculates through a stratum of sand under the river at a depth of 40 feet.

Tests have shown the water to be exceptionally pure.

From the wells the water goes to the old inlet house at the lower end of the boulevard by means of a pipe conduit. There it passes through an eight foot filter gallery, and from there to the pumping station, both of which places were visited by the party, and inspected.

Supper was taken at the Richardson house, congratulatory remarks being made by Messrs. Putnam and Bowers, and later the party took special cars for Lakeview, when the evening was enjoyed.

Jackson Injured.

While Charles Jackson was driving a dump cart through Prince street yesterday he fell from his seat and the wheels passed over him. He resumed work but his injuries assumed a serious turn and today he was removed to the corporation hospital in the ambulance. He was in the employ of Charlus Clapp, the well known stable man.

LIVING TORTURE.

Painful Condition of a Lowell Citizen and His Relief.

A disease which is accompanied with sharp pains at every turn wears upon the patient so terribly that life becomes nothing but a torture. Misery, misery, year after year, is enough to utterly discourage one and wish it was all over. Neither can we blame such an invalid for all the morbid thoughts of life that may arise. Mr. F. D. Sawyer, residing at 118 Walker street, has undoubtedly a keen recollection of the tortures of Kidney disease, and he is glad it is but a recollection, as anyone who had suffered ten years, would be. He has for seventeen years driven a soda wagon, and the constant jolting and jumping off the wagon and on, produced a terrible condition of the kidneys. He has been so bad at times as to be utterly unable to do a thing. He has doctored, taken many remedies, worn plasters and plasters, and all to no real good. Often he was quite unable to dress himself. His nights were sleepless from pain, and it was impossible to find any position of ease in bed. Added to all this came urinary trouble to lend its misery to the general woe. A few weeks ago he had an unusually bad attack, and having read what Doan's Kidney Pills were doing right here in Lowell, he got a box of Ellingwood & Co., Merrimack and Central streets. He adds: "They surprised me. I have not felt as I do now in years, and I want to give you a strong testimonial in gratitude to the Pills."

REPRESENATIVE DISTRICTS

Chairman Poore of the Republican City Committee Appears for Lowell.

The County Commissioners met yesterday at East Cambridge and gave a hearing to the representatives of 54 cities and towns in this county with reference to the redistricting of Middlesex county into new representatives districts, four new representatives being allowed the county.

Every part of the county was heard from including Lowell in whose intrest? George W. Poore chairman of the Republican city committee asked that Lowell be divided as follows: wards 1, 2, 3 and 6 in one district; wards 4, 7, and 8 and the towns of Tyngsboro, Dunstable, Westford and Chelmsford in another district, and ward 5 and 9 and the towns of Tewksbury, Wilmington, Reading, Billerica, Burlington, Dracut, Carlisle and North Reading in another district. Each of the districts have three representatives. Owing to the recent change in ward lines, the commissioners will make several changes in the districts in this city. The statement handed in by Mr. Poore was authorized by the republican city committee, and is said to bar all democrats.

NORTH CHELMSFORD.

A very pretty lawn party was given at the residence of Miss Nellie Harrington last evening in honor of her guest, Miss Julia Sullivan of Fall River. The lawn was prettily decorated with Chinese lanterns. Many people were present from Lowell, East Chelmsford and Somerville. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Harrington and her amiable assistants Miss Julie Sullivan of Fall River, Miss Julia Harrington of North Somerville and Miss Sadie A. Leahey of North Chelmsford.

Ambulance Case.

The ambulance was called to the end of Dutton street, near the Merrimack mills, yesterday, to assist a man who had been thrown from his buggy. The man was not seriously injured and refused assistance.

Police Court—Pickman, J.

Thirteen drunks occupied the attention of the court for an hour this morning.

There was but one sentence for drunkenness, the unfortunate being Ellen Moran who received eight months in jail.
